END OF SEASON SALE

Bought your pillows & comforters elsewhere? Guaranteed you overpaid!!!

CAVEAT EMPTOR (BUYER BEWARE)

Don't be misled by advertisements for European goose down comforters at supposedly "SALE PRICES". We'll show you that most of those ads do not represent good values at all. Just because these advertisements are from major departments stores - do not be fooled-all down is not alike.

The quality of goose down is measured in fill power (also know as loft). Fill Power is the amount of cubic inches one ounce of down will fill. Our 800 plus Siberian Goose Down will fill between 800 and 850 cubic inches of space. "The Company Store" catalog always lists the fill power of their goose down. Bring in their catalog and we'll generally save you 50% off their prices.

Goose Down Comforters are an investment, with proper care a fine quality comforter will last a life time. Our high quality 100% cotton shells, or tickings, are divided into baffle boxes. The baffle box has a mesh channel separating the top from the bottom of the comforter. The baffle allows the down to give you maximum loft without collecting in one section of the comforter. We do not cater to the consumer that is more interested in price than quality. Our most valuable asset is our customer. We will only sell a product that we believe to be the highest value at the best price. Cheap low quality down should fill garage cans not pillows and comforters. All our goose down pillows and comforters contain 100% goose down even though it is legal to combine 70% down and 30% feathers and label the item 100% goose down. Remember feathers are those things with quills, down is similar to tiny balls of cotton, absolutely no hard quill. Our goose down comforters and pillows are machine washable because they only contain down.

The larger the individual down cluster the higher the fill power. The higher the fill power the better the comforter will insulate thus providing more comfort to you. Since you are spending 1/3 of your life in bed it should be as luxurious as possible. - Why not?

The North Pole Ice Chest Phenomenon Sends Temperatures Plummeting Here

By Dan Rattiner

You don't need an expert to tell you that this summer's weather was the coldest anyone can remember. What happened to Global Warming? Everyone has been bracing for the tropics in the Hamptons. Palm trees. Colorful parrots. Banana Daquiris. Yet for the first time since this country has been keeping accurate weather records, in the summer of 2000 the temperature never climbed above ninety degrees on Long Island. There were even nights in August when we even had temperatures down into the fifties. Where did summer go?

At the end of the summer, as a sort of oddball explanation point, something extraordinary was observed at the North Pole. And scientists say this may be responsible for this cold summer in a way that nobody ever thought of before.

The Russian ice breaker Yamal, carrying thirty tourists, had arrived at the North Pole to find they were in a lake. Waves lapped at the ship. The tourists photographed it. The navigator of the Yamal measured it three miles wide and ten miles long.

In the reports about the North Pole Lake, seen on TV and appearing in newspapers, scientists said that lakes come and go up in the polar regions all the time. And so this was not so surprising. But they also offered up some shocking statistics. The thickness of the polar ice cap has shrunk by half during the last fifty years. The average measurement from 1958 to 1976 was 10.2 feet. Another set of measurements taken from 1993 to 1997 had it at 5.9 feet. And because of global warming, average temperatures at the pole were rising. During this time they rose eleven degrees.

The theory about this that had been overlooked is if the temperatures in an icy area rise very suddenly, the temperatures just adjacent to it cool. Call it the ice chest phenomenon, is how I understand it. Put some ice in a cooler along with some beer and as long as the ice lasts the beer cools. The United States is the beer. The ice is going to last at least another eighty years if my mathematics is correct. By then, if I'm not dead I'll be 140 years old. Not my problem. And until then we'll all be cool.

Put some ice in a cooler along with some beer and as long as the ice lasts the beer cools. The United States is the beer.

A corollary to the ice chest phenomenon, is, of course, that if the ice melts, the water rises. And, indeed it has. We live in a low lying area. All of this, some day, could be underwater.

I had dinner with Perry B. Duryea Jr. the other evening. Perry, who is now in his eighties, has had an extraordinarily vigorous life. He and his family own a lobster wholesaling business in Montauk. For more than 20 years he was the leader of the State Assembly and one of the two most powerful men in the State. He ran for governor on one occasion.

On this particular occasion, however, he was talking about the average level of the water on Fort Pond Bay. It is at least a foot higher than it was sixty years ago.

"I have my office in the lobster house," he said. "And I look out on the dock. John Costello of

If you are driving down a country road here in the Hamptons and come upon a giant forty-foot tall puppy, you are probably looking at the Jeff Koons sculpture purchased by publisher Peter Brant and his wife Stephanie Seymour. The puppy has been on display at in Rockefeller Plaza for a time, now it's heading out.

Actress Kim Cattrall was nominated for an Emmy for her comedy role in Sex in the City on HBO this year. But if you were watching that night it just didn't happen. Maybe next year.

The book signing for Dan Rattiner's new book of cartoons, Ballet Parking, will be held 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Sunday, September 24 at the Paradise in Sag Harbor. Ya'll come. There will be surprises.

Among the newcomers in the Hamptons this summer were the Prince and Princess Michael of Kent, England. They were highly visible at the Hampton Classic this year.

Art collector Andrew Crispo formerly of Southampton, was sentenced to seven years in prison for threatening to kidnap the four-year-old daughter of his bankruptcy lawyer. Crispo's Southampton mansion burned to the ground fifteen years ago. In the '80s Crispo had also been investigated in connection with the murder of youth involved in S&M sex, but Crispo was never indicted. That was fifteen or so years ago, too.

Although those who were there say Sean "Puffy" Combs' Labor Day party was appropriately quiet and ended on time, the police nevertheless issued the Puffster a ticket for playing music too loud. The complaint apparently came from neighbor Debra Lobel, an attorney, who has objected strenuously to all of Mr. Combs' parties. Nevertheless, other neighbors, Helen Wigdor, Dr. Beth Rosner, Dr. Bob MacBarb all told New York Post columnist Neal Travis that they had no problem with Combs and that he is a good neighbor. Travis, who was at the party said he would be happy to testify under oath that the party went well. To obtain a permit for the party Combs had to agreee to make no further applications for any future parties if he received any tickets.

Advice To City People

Get Off The Phone And Out Of The Car And Smell The Roses

By Dan Rattiner

I saw an ad in a financial magazine the other day that showed the arm of a runner with a baton in it handing off to a runner in front and the caption read: Thanks old economy, we'll take it from here." I think at this point there is a broad consensus that our upswing in America's economic fortune is not just some cyclical thing, but a new order of business based upon computer, Internet and cellular phones.

In the olden days the transfer of information took days by messenger or by mail. You had to have a physical copy of something. Nowadays you can be sitting on a ferry boat between Shelter Island and Greenport, make a call on your cell phone, leave a message on somebody's voice mail and get the information either by a return phone call, e-mail, or fax within an hour. The savings are enormous. As far as computers are concerned, you can be having lunch with someone, come to a point where you need some sort of information, open a lap top and in less than two minutes go onto the internet and get it.

The combination for these four factors, working in unison, has been so cost effective and so unique just to the American experience, that this country has economically roared away from Russia, China, Europe and particularly Japan, the last of whom was expected to be a considerable threat in this century.

On the other hand, as many Europeans have told me, Americans may be winning the race, but it is really worth running? Getting things done better and faster instead of giving Americans more free time to enjoy life, seems to have simply given them less. We race toward the American dream of success and prosperity, and having gotten it, we look up and see that there is more if we just keep running so we just keep going. The result is more people pacing around talking on cell phones on the dock and fewer are actually fishing. In many Italian resorts for example, all stores close down on Sunday and between twelve and three during the week. The same is true on the French Riviera. There may be more business to be done during those hours or on Sunday, but they make the choice not to do that business. Americans don't.

On the other hand, as many Europeans have told me, Americans may be winning the race, but is it really worth running?

Out here in the Hamptons for example, the coming of the railroad in the late 19th century brought the wealthy summer visitors to the East End for the first time. For the next 100 years, they would arrive Friday night, they would go shopping and to the beach on Saturday. And on Sunday, they would enjoy the day, the stores were closed, downtown was quiet.

Not any more. One by one, beginning around twenty years ago the stores began to stay open all day Sunday as well. The first few were looked at askance by the people who believed in a day of rest. But there was no law saying they had to be closed, and as the years went by, more and more of them opened. Today, on Sunday, practically every store is open all day, and some of them are even open twenty-four hours.

Somewhere in here I think there is a mink coat. A man buys it and gives it to his wife and in Europe she thanks him and the two of them go off to have a leisurely meal at a nearby restaurant. Here in America a man gives his wife a mink coat and she says, "thank you very much, excuse me, I have to make a phone call," and whips out her cell phone.

One of my very favorite movies was The Summer of '42 about a place that looked like it might have been one of the Hamptons, at a time when life was leisurely and the pace was slow and you could sit in a wicker rocker and read a book. Albert Einstein summered out here in 1939 and spent a lot of his time on a little sail boat in the bay. In 1957 Marilyn Monroe summered in the Hamptons with her husband, playwright Arthur Miller and they had a peaceful time staying at a farm in Amagansett. That farm today is known as Stony Hill, is owned by Alec Baldwin and Kim Basinger. The media and paparazzi can sometimes be seen at the gates.

They say today that the average American is about fifteen pounds fatter than he was a generation ago. We eat standing up, fast food, malted milks, malted drinks, a Slim Fast strawberry drink for dessert, we're packing it in. But if life were slower, we wouldn't be number one, we'd probably be number four. And we'd be a lot thinner and leaner but we wouldn't be running so fast, trying to keep up. •

On Friday, August 25, between 6 and 8 p.m., our cat Lucy disappeared from around Lamb Ave. and Edgewood in Quogue. An intensive search of the neighborhood revealed no clues to her whereabouts whatsoever.

Lucy is a completely white, 6-year-old shorthair with greenish-blue eyes, weighing about 9 pounds. She is very clean and healthy, and is also self-confident and very friendly.

WE WANT HER BACK.
This cat is an important member of our family. We are heartbroken and devastated by this.

If you have any information as to Lucy's whereabouts, or if you know of anyone who has recently added a beautiful white cat to their family, please call us. We will pay for her return or any information that leads us to her.

What Can Happen When There's A Big Secret About Who's A Bad Doctor

By Dan Rattiner

Dr. Michael Swango pled guilty last week to having killed three of the patients at Northport Veterans Affairs Medical Center eight years ago. They were George Siano, 60, Thomas Samarco, 73, and Aldo Serini, 62, all of Long Island. He killed each of them in their hospital beds by giving them potassium injections causing their hearts to stop.

Dr. Swango apparently enjoyed watching these patients die. Police have a diary he kept of how "killing" made him feel "alive." It was such a thrill. There were a whole lot of others he had done this to, besides these three. They were documented in the diary.

Of course, the sorry state of our legal system is such that by getting Swango to agree to admit he did this, thus avoiding the bother of holding a trial, they are rewarding him by agreeing not to do to him what he did to others. He'll spend his life in a maximum security jail. The only people he might endanger with his needles are his fellow inmates.

What's even worse, and apparently totally overlooked in this grisly story, is the sorry state of our medical oversight system. It's enough to make you eat right and run ten miles a day. Never get sick.

There's not much to prevent you meeting a Dr. Swango. But all anyone seems interested in is the history of all of this which is certainly fascinating. In the medical school at Southern Illinois University which Michael Swango had attended, so many patients in the hospital died after his medical student visits to them that over beers his fellow students called him Double-O Swango, The Man With a License to Kill. This was in the early 1980s. In 1984, Dr. Swango started a neurosurgery residency at Ohio State University Hospital and more people died on his watch. He was called to the administration office of the hospital and asked to explain the mysterious coincidences of his bedside visits followed by death, and as he gave no adequate explanation, they ended his residency.

Swango returned to his home in a small town in Illinois. He got a job, and then got into a dispute with co-workers. This was at the Adams County Ambulance Service. Angry, Swango laced their donuts with ant killer. Five people got sick. None died. But Swango was caught, convicted and served two years (of a five year sentance) in prison for the offence.

After his two year prison sentence ended in 1993, Dr. Swango applied to join a medical residency program at Stony Brook University. He was accepted and assigned to the veterans hospital in Northport. The first day he was there, a patient he was caring for, Dominic Buffalino, fell into a coma and died. By the end of the year, three more patients, those he is now confessing to having killed, also died. Northport officials fired Dr. Swango.

> ...the three Northport patients who had died were exhumed... They had died by lethal injection.

Next, Dr. Swango got himself accepted as a doctor at Mneme Mission Hospital in Bulaway, Zimbabwe. He went there, poisoned seven patients, five of whom died, but found himself in a medical oversight system far better than that in America. After just five months, the Zimbabwe authorities went looking for him to charge him with murder, and so he fled back to the United States.

Zimbabwe officials now filed extradition papers to get Dr. Swango back. And it was because of these papers that, finally, it came to the attention of the medical authorities here in America to look into the matter. Northport Hospital administrators opened Swango's personnel folder where it said he had served a two year prison sentence for a barroom brawl in Illinois. They had believed this. Now, they looked into it and found the real reason for the sentence. There are federal laws against giving false testimony on a medical application. You can go to jail for that!

Next, the three Northport patients who had died were exhumed. Autopsies were conducted. They had died by poison injection.

By this time it was 1997. Police went to arrest Dr. Swango at his home in Illinois, not to serve him papers about murdering all these patients – they really had very little evidence to charge him – but with charges that he had given false testimony on his medical application to Northport. They found him in Chicago, at O'Hare Airport, waiting for a plane to Saudi Arabia. He'd been home from Zimbabwe two months. Now he'd gotten a job at a hospital in Riyadh. He was all packed and on his way.

Dr. Swango was arrested and convicted of giving false medical information. He was sentenced to serve three years in a prison in Colorado. Last week, as he was leaving prison after those three years, authorities served him with papers again. He had a choice. He could accept papers that would send him off to the wolves in Zimbabwe who would probably hang him in public in a sports stadium, or he could accept and sign a paper confessing to murdering the three men in Northport. If he did that, as a further inducement, they would agree to spare his life and just sentence him to life in prison. Dr. Swango agreed. The idea wasn't that HE would get killed. It was that EVERYBODY ELSE would get killed.

He also agreed to sign a paper admitting to killing nineteen year old Cynthia McGee way back in his old residency days at Ohio State Hospital. And he'd show them the diaries he kept. What's fair is fair.

No matter how you look at it, it is apparent that the American medical profession did not have an adequate background checking procedure when they hired this doctor. At Northport, for example, they had Ohio State University and they had Southern Illinois Medical School they could have called. They knew he had served a two year prison sentence. You'd have thought they might have looked into it. But they didn't.

Is this just an isolated incident? Well, how do you find out who is a good doctor or a bad doctor in America? If you find out, please let me know.

In the meantime, for all of us, the bottom line is exercise, eat right and don't get sick. Or move to Zimbabwe. In Zimbabwe, they may not have many doctors, but they know a bad one when they see one. •

Bountiful Harvest

The Great Tomato Taste Off Is Held At Quail Hill Farm In Amagansett

By Ben Amato

The fields were alive with the sound of tomatoes being picked, washed, sliced and savored by those who attended the third annual Great Tomato Taste-Off, held at Quail Hill Farm. This cooperative organic farm is nestled in a lush bountiful valley, just north of Amagansett and south of Hurricane Hill. One hundred and forty households annually bond together to benefit from this Community Supported Agriculture, or CSA. Quail Hill Farms began over a decade ago, on land donated by Deborah Ann Light to the Peconic Trust. Today, Quail Hill Farms stands as a prototype and model for over one thousand cooperative organic farms nationwide.

"Besides the obvious health reasons of eating organically grown food, I love the idea of coming out here... getting your hands dirty... I'm a hunter and gatherer," said Martha Sutphen, as she loaded a basket of flowers and vegetables into her car. "The birds and butterflies, the milkweed in bloom. It's gardening without weeding. We get so spoiled."

Farmer / Poet Scott Chaskey and a team of three apprentice farmers plant, tend and nurture over two hundred and twenty-five varieties of organically grown vegetables, fruits and flowers.

"There's a membership fee and then we get to pick on Tuesdays and Saturdays until frost. There's raspberries, tomatoes, green beans, four types of peas," Martha's mouth began to water. "In the winter, we come out for potatoes and turnips. Oh, there's carrots and beets."

Gordian Raacke was busy preparing the twenty-two types of tomatoes for the Saturday 9 a.m. tasting. "I don't want to move anywhere where there is not a C.S.A. For me, it's like psychotherapy to come out here." The table before him featured rows of plates, each showcasing a ripe, shining red, yellow, green or purple tomato. Surrounding these fruits were slices of each variety, ready to be devoured and evaluated by any of the ninety-nine judges that came along.

"Each tastes different, different seeds, some sweet, some real juicy," said Susyn Reeve, clipboard in hand. "It's fun trying to figure out what I like."

Ellen Freis from Manhattan completed her tasting and judging, and was in the fields, deciding what would be her dinner. "It changes my summer. I look forward to coming here. I get to taste so many things and can do what I want to. I can make a sauce or fill up a bowl of cherry tomatoes to have on the table. It's all so soothing."

Randi Stoll just flew in from Los Angeles and fought Friday night traffic to get his Manhattan family out to his East End home and the fields of Quail Farm. "This is an incredible organization.

COLUMNIST ED LOWE GIVES COMMENCEMENT ADDRESS

By Janet Berg

Assistant Superintendent Lynn Schwartz, introduced Ed Lowe, the well-loved columnist for Newsday for the past three decades, as the commencement speaker at Westhampton Beach School on Tuesday, the day before classes began for the new school year.

Ed Lowe has co-authored two books, has appeared as a regular panelist on a weekly cablevision show, and can be heard talking about Long Island Issues on his radio show called Lowecally Speaking on 540 WLUX AM every morning. The veteran journalist, who joined Newsday thirty years ago as a reporter, and who is the recent recipient of a Press Club Award, gave the teachers and staff an empathetic look, as they shifted on their cold metal chairs under the shade trees of the playground. To them it seemed like, in fact, it was just yesterday that they enjoyed the blasé warmth of the summer sun.

Perhaps, Mr. Lowe, being a former junior high school English teacher, himself, connects with the teachers, as his readers connect with the content of his column filled with everyday humor and humanity that they can relate to.

As the observant newspaperman pulled into town a little early, among the BMWs and Mercedes, he confessed parking his Saturn in the lot of a defunct bank, so he would not offend anybody. He admitted being proud of his own humility; "I'm a recovering Irish Catholic," he said. "We live lives of irony."

There is a charm behind his humble nature, just as there is an impish smile behind his prominent mustache. "I have no expertise," he said. "I'm just a storyteller." ("Like Dan Rattiner, who's been telling stories for forty years," he said after the gathering.)

Aside from being a wonderful speaker, Mr. Lowe has performed at four leading Long Island Comedy Clubs, and those attending the conference got a sampling:

When little Ed was only three and a half years old, his mother would sit him down and read to him every day, not necessarily because he was 'precocious,' but because there was only one other kid on Hamilton Street in Amityville in 1949. She was two years older than he was. "We played "Cowboys and... Native Americans in the backyard that summer until this giant yellow vehicle came and took away the only other kid; leaving me alone with my own imagination." By the end of that year, when he was four and a half, he realized that the sounds that came from his mother's lips had to do with the symbols on the pages of the little Golden Books. And a miracle happened – he began to read. He got what he wanted. He went to Amityville Elementary School at 4 1/2 years-old; to the same place where the yellow vehicle swept away his only friend, Bonnie Jean Chapel.

He recalls coming home from school on his first day with a huge piece of scotch tape across his mouth. ("They're not allowed to do that anymore," he added.) The curriculum was simple; they had to learn how to nap and snack. "I napped my way into first grade where they asked you to learn how to read. Since I already knew how to read, I breezed my way through it. But, my teacher requested I repeat first grade because 'there will come a time when kids will change and I could have social problems.'"

Social problems? "At eleven years-old, and only 4 foot 10 inches tall, I can remember the girl behind me in science class. Did you know that only fifty percent of the human species attain its physiological maturity before the other fifty percent; that leaves fifty percent intimidated for a year. I mean, one year you're sitting in front of MaryLee, the girl, and the next year you're sitting in front of MaryLee, the emerging woman.

"There I am, 4'10" and I go to the dance – the hop – with songs like "One- Eyed, One Horned, Flying Purple People Eater..." and MaryLee asks me to dance – a slow dance. I'm 4'10" and she's 5' 5" and has reached her full physiological maturity. So, my nose is... I can't lead, 'cause if I turn my head to my right or to my left, (however delightful that experience may be) it is going to plummet my soul into eternal damnation.

"So... I decide to become a priest. Since I can't relate to fifty percent of the human species, celibacy seems like a noble idea. I enter St. Pious Seminary, where I am now 12 years old and 4'11". At 12 years old you have two choices: to be acceptable or not acceptable. The word in '58 and '59 was "cool." (Today it's "hot.") Not acceptable, was "faggot." Today, that means something different.

"Now, a faggot, especially for a boy, was a kid who wore high, polished oxford shoes, cuffs on his creased pants, carried his books in a huge leather briefcase with a big lock on it, always raised his hand straight up in the air, always had the right answer, always did his homework neatly, was always on time, there were no mud puddles on his way to school, and no dogs that ate his homework.

"Yes, I wanted to be cool. To gain acceptance with your peers in this Catholic ethnic milieu was to play fabulous basketball; I'm only 4'11", so that's out. So, I pick anti-authoritarian. I was going to be the admiration of my peers, sacrificing that of my superiors. All the teachers were priests, and there was suspicion that God was somewhere in the building. So, there were rules."

Plagiarizing maneuvers from the most insipid kid in the neighborhood, Ed earned many detentions and wrote 500-word compositions every night. "So, they punished me into a craft."

One day, at the end of his four years, this impressionable young man is called into the Monsignor's office. "I knock on the door and I stand in front of this holy looking guy with silvery white hair, rimless, octagonal glasses and a black cassock. He motions to a wild colored leather couch. 'Please, have a seat,' he says in his satiny voice." As the priest reaches into his robes (Ed is not sure if he has scales or feathers underneath; after all, he is a priest), he takes out a fresh pack of unfiltered Camel cigarettes and offers Ed.

"Cigarette?"

Ed looks at it as if it is his last cigarette and declines, regretting that decision for his entire life, as that would have been ultimately, the "cool thing to do. But by that time, my involuntary sympathetic nervous system had sucked all the moisture out of my head, so had I applied an unfiltered cigarette to my lip, it would be there today, as a skin graft..."

The priest then asked what Ed's plans were for next year, and Ed said that he was not continuing on to priesthood.

"How convenient," the Monsignor replied.

Ed Lowe ends up at Marist College, where he majors in English and minors in education. "At Marist I do my student teaching at Poughkeepsie High School. And the bedrock foundation beneath this new relevance of teaching, was love. We were

Suffolk County Water Authority Bills New Householders For Debt Of Old

By Jerry Cimisi

"We write to bring your attention to what we believe to be an illegal practice by the Suffolk County Water Authority..."

Thus began a letter faxed to this paper from Paul and Patricia Molloy of Center Moriches. The letter outlined a story that News 12 covered but did not question and which local politicians seem to want to avoid.

The Suffolk County Water Authority is trying to collect, from the Molloys, about $3,300 dollars owed the company by the previous owner of the house the Molloys purchased in Center Moriches in September, 1999. The Molloys are both perplexed and (not surprisingly) more than a little annoyed at the situation. "How can we be charged for someone's debt? was our reaction when the Water Company told us we had to pay off what the previous owner owed or we would not get any water," said Mr. Molloy.

When the Molloys bought their home a year ago there was the usual search to see if there were any outstanding leins on the property. None turned up –because the Suffolk County Water Authority never issues leins on money it is owed.

Mr. Molloy said, "We found out about it the week after we closed when we went to have all the utilities put on our name."

The previous owner had contracted with the water company in March, 1996 to be connected with their water and was pay off, over a period of fifteen years, a total installation charge (new pipes had to be laid in the ground) of $7,610. The installation fee would be paid off in a quarterly installment fee of $171, aside from what would have to be paid for water.

"We found out," said Mr. Molloy, "that the previous owner had stopped paying the installments on the installation in September, 1998, a year before we bought the house. I guess they knew they were selling and decided not to continue paying the bill."

The problem, of course, for the Molloys was not the fact that the previous owner of their home was delinquent on the water bill, but the fact that the Suffolk County Water Company expected them to pay the outstanding balance on the surcharge for connection to SCWA.

In early October, 1999 the Molloys received from SCWA a letter that said they owed the company the remainder due for the March, 1996 installation and that the Molloys would have to pay "$171.19 per quarter in addition to your regular water bills." The letter did not specifically mention that this had been owed the company by the previous owners.

The Molloys challenged this practice, but this past May a representative from the company showed up at their door and demanded payment or the Molloy's water would be turned off. The Molloys paid one of the surcharge installments and for the water they had used. "That's the only part of the previous owner's bill we have paid so far," Mr. Molloy said.

Previously, SCWA presented the Molloys with a contract for service. Typed in with all the usual clauses was a paragraph that read, "This agreement shall constitute a release to [previous owner's name] from obligations to the prior Construction Revenue Contract dated March 5, 1996, Project N.CWB96-131 CRC and assumption thereof by Patricia Molloy."

The Molloys did not sign this. They obtained a copy of the water company's contract with the previous owner. In that contract was the provision: "Sould the customer terminate service prior to surcharge being paid, the proportionate balance becomes due and payable immediately."

> ...the Regional Manager said... "But the truth of the matter is, I don't believe anyone has actually taken us to to task and actually sued us on this...."

Just why would the company try to collect debts not from the original debtor but from those who had come to use their service afterward? According to a water company spokesperson its simply easier that way.

In a taped phone conversation on August 8, 2000 between Patricia Molloy and Steve Romano of SCWA, Romano, who is the Regional Manager, said, "Currently our attorneys and counsel have reviewed this and I don't know how they checked, if they checked with the attorney general or whatever they do – sometimes I guess they get other opinions or maybe even a judge to say where we stand and I guess they felt very strongly that it would be very favorable that if we were ever challenged, we would win."

However, Mr. Romano added immediately, "But the truth of the matter is, I don't believe anyone has ever taken us to task and actually sued us on this...."

Earlier in the conversation Mr. Romano had said that in the late '80s the water company would try and go after debtors when they left a house, but, "when we were not successful in collecting a very little amount of money, we had a whole new shift in the board, a whole new set of attorneys...and that's when they started to change the policy... which the board can do and say, 'Yeah, um, we believe somebody's still deriving a benefit – the new owners.' If we had our druthers we would do this transaction with the seller ...because I said you could strongly argue that really they should take care of this."

The Molloys had their attorney request from the water company, in writing, its policies in this matter. The SCWA sent back two pages dealing with "Extension of Mains," but nowhere in these two pages did it deal with trying to collect from new users of water a debt run up by a previous user.

In fact, Section 8, Paragraph B, appears to state the new customers are only responsible for what they themselves use. "The Authority shall give to any new customer who wants to make application along the main extension for service subject to a CRC [Construction Revenue Contract] surcharge written notice that they shall be responsible for a ratable portion of the surcharge imposed on the premises pursuant to the CRC from the date of application." (Emphasis added.)

The Molloys wrote to a number of politicians: Senators Shumer and Moynihan, State Senator Ken LaValle, Congressman Forbes and Lazio. "Although Lazio doesn't represent our district, he is running for senate, so I thought he might react." Indeed, Lazio replied that as the Molloys were not in his district and he was forwarding their letter to Congressman Forbes. The Molloys also petitioned Felix Grucci, Brookhaven Town Supervisor, who is running for Congress against Forbes. The Molloys said they were disappointed in the lack of response from Grucci's office. Senator Moynihan forwarded the Molloy's concerns to Suffolk County Executive Robert Gaffney, whose office said they would look over the matter.

The head of the SCWA is the former Islip Town Supervisor, Republican Michael LoGrande. According the SCWA website, "The Suffolk County Water Authority is a self-supporting, public-benefit corporation operating by virtue of the Public Authorities of the State of New York. The Chairman and the Four Members of the Board are appointed by the Suffolk County Legislature for five year staggered terms. The Authority is non-profit; all revenue received must be used for operating expenses and for paying any outstand-

Who's Here:

Lisa G
Radio Personality

By Dan Rattiner

Radio personality Lisa G, who is one of the three members of the team on the John Gambling Show on WOR every morning, is a frequent visitor of the Hamptons and the Quogue/Westhampton Beach area. She is a vivacious, pretty, blond woman in her thirties, and was hired, she said, to bring a younger sound to the long-running John Gambling Show and to let listeners know what is happening in New York City, where she lives.

"John is based in New Jersey," she said, "and of course he's been running the show from 5-9 a.m. for more than twenty years, and I give it a kind of Manhattan/Long Island feel."

Lisa G grew up in Woodmere, Long Island, the middle child of a man who was the president of a hair brush company. "I discovered radio when I was about twelve," she said. "I became an intern at WLIR in Garden City when I was at Hewlett High School, and the reason I got fascinated with it, my parents said, was that I sometimes seemed to have an on-air button go off in my head, which was because as a middle child, nobody was really listening to me at home."

I asked her about her older and younger siblings. Both are girls. Her older sister lives in Quogue full time. Her name is Bonnie Fuchs and has a daughter, Casey, six and a half, and her younger sister is Andrea Cantor and has a daughter Jennifer, who will be eight in September. This is a world of girls.

"Both of my sisters and both of their children have been on radio with me," Lisa said. "Jeanie seems most interested in it."

Lisa went to Hofstra on a scholarship and did a morning show on college radio. In the afternoons she worked at WBAB in Babylon. She graduated in three years. "During my college years," Lisa said, "I lived in Point Lookout with three law students. That's across from Jones Beach, next to Lido Beach. I love living on the water."

After Hofstra, she went to Chicago where she got a job as an afternoon news person on a rock radio station. "One day the morning news person called in sick, and I filled in. I've been a morning person since, and I love it. I get up at four, I'm at work at five."

After a few years in Chicago, Lisa returned to New York – this was in the late 1980s – to the rock station WNEW-FM. In 1990, she moved to Hot 97. She's had an apartment on the Upper East Side of Manhattan ever since she has been back. "I never felt that I ever really left Long Island," she said. "There are lots of beautiful places out here, and I'm just a Long Island girl."

In the early 1990s, Lisa, still at Hot 97, now a hip hop station, founded a morning show, 6-10 a.m. with Ed Lover, who bills himself as the number one black Jew in America, and Dr. Dre. "It was not hard to learn hip hop, for me anyway," Lisa said. "It's just another subculture, like Hasidim is a subculture. I'm certainly not closed-minded about it. Anyway, we were all Long Islanders. Ed from Queens, Dre from Westbury and me from Woodmere. We had a great time. When we started the new show, the producer said, can I talk the talk, and I said, 'Absolutely. I'm a white Jewish woman in a hip hop world and comedy and personality are not about the color of your skin.'"

I asked Lisa about some of the highlights of her career. She said she had been selected as the Billboard Air Personality of the Year last year, and she was very proud of that. "I've sung 'It's Not Unusual' with Tom Jones, I've sung 'Can't Get Enough of Your Love' with Barry White, I've interviewed Tito Puente. I recently sang to Placido Domingo the menu of his new restaurant in Manhattan at East 49th street, and I tried to invite him to join in, but he just laughed instead." Lisa smiled. "I think in real life I am rather quiet," she said.

I asked what she thought would be the future of talk radio. "It's cooled off a little bit. With the Internet and satellites, you'll be able to get anything, anywhere, all over the country. All cars in 2001 will have systems for satellite radio installed, and of course you'll be able to download to mp3 players."

What does she do in the Hamptons, I asked her. "When I am out here in Quogue visiting my sister, it 's kind of like the Summer Olympic Games 2000: I run, swim, play tennis, kayak, go golfing, and I know where the scene is, and I can go to it or I can leave it and just be very low key. One night, for instance, I can be at Ted Field's party, and another night I can be at employee's night at the Stephen Talkhouse in Amagansett. Lisa smiled. "I am having a great time," she said. •

As we went to press on Tuesday we learned that the show Rambling with Gambling, which features Lisa G, will be having its last performance this week. There have been three generations of John Gamblings. The first, opening on the show on WOR in 1925. Altogether there have been 23,616 Rambling with Gambling shows – certainly the longest running radio show in history.

ing debts. Any excess revenue is used for construction purposes. The Suffolk County Water Authority is the largest purveyor dependent on an underground water supply in the nation." The SCWA serves 1.1 million people.

LoGrande joined the SCWA in 1990 and became chairman in 1992. he was reappointed chairman this past May by an 18-0 vote of the Suffolk Legislature

The Molloys now sought to beseech the media. On September 7, News 12 did a piece on the matter, "But not," said Mrs. Molloy, "on what this story really is about. News 12 did a 'buyer beware piece,' in other words, if you're buying a house make sure it doesn't have an outstanding bill with the Suffolk County Water Authority. They did not question at all the water company's practice of trying to collect someone else's debt from us. Scott Feldman was the reporter for the piece. I spoke to the individual who had researched the background for it and she just told me that the water company's attorney said it was legal. So it appeared to me News 12 just accepted what they were told. And questioned nothing."

Tim Hopkins, general counsel for the SCWA, said it was his understanding that the Molloys, when they found out about the surcharge due from the previous owner, agreed to assume the payments. But when a contract was mailed to them (as indicated earlier) they did not sign it.

"Part of the complexity of this," Mr. Hopkins said, "is that the Molloys actually did not open an account in their name until this past August, almost a year after they had bought the house. During all that time the bills had been going out to the previous owner."

The previous owner, who lives in Smithtown, had bought the house as a rental property and had continued to live in Smithtown, where the bills were being sent. As the Molloys never sent the contract back, Hopkins said, an account was not opened in their name. And, as they were not getting any bills, they were also not paying for the water that they had used. This was when the water company sent a representative to the house this past May.

"The Molloys paid around $260," said Hopkins, which included what they owed for the water plus $171 for the surchage owed by the previous owner."

To the specfic question: Does the Suffolk County Water Authority expect the Molloys to pay the surcharge owed by the previous owner, Mr. Hopkins said the Molloys would be billed the surcharge from the time the account was in their name – though the water company would also gladly accept the amount from the previous owner.

"If we collect from the prior owner the premises will be credited," said Mr. Hopkins.

On the matter of whether it was fair to bill the Molloys for something ordered by the previous owner, Mr. Hopkins said that whoever owned the property after the original order for service was now accruing a benefit from it. "We have increased the value of the home."

When Mr. Hopkins was asked what would happen if the Molloys did not pay the rest of the surcharge incurred by the previous owner, "If the Molloys don't pay the surcharge, eventually their water would be turned off." •

It centers you, changes your whole routine. I love to expose my kids to the farm, from Spring right through Autumn. There's the apple orchard and the farm stand. It creates new sensibilities for Ben and Emilie," Randi said as he walked his two small children through the fields. "My in-laws visited from Paris and were overwhelmed. This is what they do over there. Scott is the farmer and he's a poet also. He's so generous and kind."

Scott Chasky is the organic magician who lovingly coaxes edible treasures from the fertile valley and hills. "In my twenties, I went to England. I have a Masters in English literature and I worked my way through college as a gardener, over on Cliff Meadow. I learned from the old masters of English gardening. I came back here and my mother-in-law told me about the farm, with only ten families participating. She was an original member. We work for the Peconic Land Trust as one of their projects and we are linked with many other conservation groups."

"We do this event for us, it's fun," said Jane Weissman who produces the Quail Hill Farm News. "It gets people out to the farm, to see what we do." She keeps track of the membership, and encourages new members, who have to contact the Peconic Land Trust, to become a shareholder. Presently about 140 households or paired singles reap most of the harvest from the farm. Some of the excess is sold to local restaurants. "But new members are always welcomed. One just signed up and several people came up during the tasting and wish to sign up next Spring."

Matt's wild cherry tomatoes took the first prize in this year's Great Tomato Taste-Off. Sun gold were the next favored variety but green zebra came in a close third.

"This is a green tomato with stripes on the skin. It gets ripe when the background color is a deep chartreuse. It's green and soft and very sweet," said Jane. "Fourth was Paul Robeson, a Russian variety named in his honor for his great civil rights and artistic endeavors. Fifth was a Cherokee purple."

The real winners were those who attended the event and got to enjoy a brilliant Saturday morning in the field of Quail Farm. Jane added, "It's great to feel the energy that is in this farm." •

review: karma boomerang

By Jan Silver

Want a chance to almost reach out and touch some favorite actor or actress in a colonial barn off the East Hampton village green on a Saturday afternoon this fall? The East Hampton Historical Society is providing the barn at Mulford Farm for the fourth season of new-play readings selected by the Manhattan Drama Collective.

This is a theater-in-the-raw experience where actors first breathe life into characters and story created in a playwright's imagination. A reading is the best way for a playwright to see and hear if characters are believable, if the plot works, if the play is too long, or if something is missing. Successful novelist Anne Roiphe (1185 Park Avenue, Up the Sandbox) will have her first play, Hannah, about the relationship between writer Hannah Arendt and philosopher Martin Heidegger, read on September 23. Anne Bancroft is scheduled to read Hannah.

Another new playwright, Barry Head, will have Voyager read on September 30, and award-winning playwright Warren Leight (Sideman) gets to hear his new musical Fame Takes A Holiday on October 7 prior to its Off Broadway opening. Eli Wallach, Anne Jackson and even celebrated cabaret chanteuse Julie Wilson have performed in this Patsy Southgate Reading Series (named in memory of the beloved theater critic of The East Hampton Star and founding writer/editor of The Paris Review).

Joe Pintauro's play in progress, Karma Boomerang, reworked since an August 4 reading at Westhampton Beach Performing Arts Center, had a spirited reading by five veteran Manhattan actors—Michael Nader, Jacqueline Murphy, Jonathan Smit, Rebecca Roberts, Darby Townsend—directed by Marie Masters on September 9.

Mr. Pintauro discussed the play before the reading, pointing out that both criminal and moral acts committed in life come back to haunt the perpetrators. The financially successful husband and wife in Karma Boomerang betrayed a man close to both of them many years earlier. He comes back into their lives, forcing them to confront the "spiritual emptiness" they have had ever since.

The love/hate relationship between the three main characters feels like the heart of the play, but the husband and wife are not yet fleshed out enough for an audience to connect to them. Pintauro says he cares about these characters, and is still working on making the audience care about them. Since we live in a time of affluence, perhaps the playwright sees spiritual and moral poverty as a flip side to materialism.

The readings begin at 4 p.m. on Saturdays September 23, 30 and October 7. A reception with the cast and producer Patricia Watt follows. (Ms. Watt is a good cook and she prepares the hors d'oeuvres spread.) Seating in the barn has been upgraded from hay bales to benches, but bring a cushion or stadium seat. Tickets are $20 at the gate on the afternoon of the performance. •

Eric Javitts Flax/Black Bucket Hat $175 and Matching Tote $215

Hat's off to the Javits Packable Collection. The Bucket group is created of the designer's lightweight, flexible Squishee® fabrication in chic stripes. The square-crown Bucket hat's brim can be worn up for a sportive look, or down for a more elegant, urbane silhouette. Just the hat for everything from jeans and khakis to lightweight suits and chic little city dresses. The matching Bucket tote is inspired by the understated details of fine luggage, the handles are tubular leather with contrast stitching. Available at Saks Fifth Avnue, Southampton and Kasal's Southampton and Sag Harbor.

Barberini Centerpiece by Ruzzetti & Gow $1,000

Flowers always look beautiful in the center of a table, but why not try something a little different every now and then? For those times, Ruzzetti & Gow makes this tastefully ornate shell and silver centerpiece made with a small selection of silver coated sea shells that are produced in Rome. The collection has expanded to include silvered fruits and vegetables. Use it as a saltcellar, a condiment dish, or just as a conversation piece. This piece is 9" wide, 5" high, with natural shells, 925 silver, made in Italy and can be ordered at Ruzzetti & Gow in New York City or check out their web site, www.Ruzzetti-and-Gow.com.

Frederic Fekkai Pony Jacqueline Large Tote, $795

A bag for all seasons. Fekkai's lush bag actually makes practicality look stunningly elegant. You won't find another bag this size with such strong lines and luxurious textures: The haircalf and patent paired together create a varied sheen, accentuated by the understated gold corner buckles and the bag hangs just low enough so it doesn't look bulky. The interior is cut into three large, clean spaces by a long center zip pocket. 10" high, 16-1/2" wide, 5" deep, 14-1/2" shoulder strap, haircalf, and is made in Italy. Saks Fifth Avenue on Main Street in Southampton sells Frederic Fakkai's bags, shawls, hair accessories and more.

The Sheltered Islander

By Sally Flynn

OBSERVATIONS OF A NEW ISLANDER # 122
OLYMPIANS AMONG US

Last week Dan Rattiner wrote about the fact that in the past eight months, two Islanders have blown the ferry gates and submersed their vehicles. Dan labors under the assumption that these acts are accidental and chemically assisted. As usual I have to straighten out this rumor.

Hasn't anyone noticed that this is an Olympic year? Hasn't anyone noticed that the Olympic Committee has approved new sports for competition this year?

One of the newest Olympic sports, Truckerining, has been approved and will make its first appearance in Australia this winter.

The sport is new, Truckerining, i.e., trucks as submarines, is an exciting addition to the Olympic line-up. Shelter Island has the honor of being one of the few places in the United States where Truckeriners can practice their sport.

Truckeriners must have superior math and engineering skills to plan the trajectory required off the dock ramp to get maximun airlift for distance over the water before the submersed part of the journey begins. Skill and nerve are required. Like a luger, Truckeriners must stay focused on the end of the road and the thrill of being airborne. Truckerining is a serious and expensive sport since most trucks can only be used for one launch. Few trucks today are seaworthy. Ford, anticipating the demand, is working on a Truckerine line for spring. Their new truckerine, the Ford Nautilus, will be available with a submersible DVD system for the kids.

Another new Olympic event that people train for here is the Ticket Run. This is a new field event where people in a ferry line attempt to run from their cars to the ticket office, buy resident discount tickets and get back to their cars before the boat docks and the line moves forward.

This is a serious event. Unlike ordinary running events that just require speed (big deal), Ticket Runners must judge the time till the boat returns, distance to the ferry office, weather conditions like an icy hill, and the likelihood that they will survive the attempt should they fail and not get back to their cars in time for the line to move forward.

I can attest to the fact that this sport is a fine art. When people see you hop out of the car and run to that office, their only thought is, "You better not hold up this line or I will drive through your car."

The third Olympic event we offer training for here on Shelter Island is the Closing Time Sprint. There are no 24-hour stores here on the Island. IGA closes at 6 p.m. Fedi's grocery and deli closes at 7 p.m and the new B&D fast mart (at the D&B gas station) closes at 9 p.m.

Closing Time Sprinters log hours in a lazy boy, then, noticing the clock on the wall they grab the leg lifter lever on the side of the lazy boy and at precisely five minutes to the hour – they launch from the chair, run to the car and race to the store. At least three cars pull up at one minute to closing time, the last one in wins.

I admire Closing Time Sprinters because I could never do it. I hate the feeling of being rushed. I hate feeling anxious about time pressure. I arrive at airports a week before the plane leaves. I'd rather wait and read a book than feel that horrible pressure. I'm definately a planner, not a sprinter.

I'm glad I could introduce Dan and the public to these new Olympic events. It's just another part of what makes living on the Island so special. • reading a book about teaching the children, not the subject, and about love and caring. So, I'm ready at twenty. I have seniors; they're nineteen. I have love; they have weapons.

Twice a year you are to be observed, and Brother Murphy, who sits in the back of the classroom, observed Ed. It is an old building with fourteen foot ceilings, double hung windows, there is high heat and humidity, which Ed describes as a torture chamber.

Again, Ed becomes a slave to his involuntary muscular problem; his mouth dries up and his earlobes get hot and his adrenal gland goes crazy. He describes pure terror.

"I forgot my own name. I had no moisture in my mouth. I couldn't make a consonant sound, and I was rendered mute, which didn't matter, because I had nothing to say and I had people who did not want to hear it, and the man who sat in the back of the room, who was going to evaluate me.

"And this happened: two pigeons fly into my classroom window. One with a gastrointestinal syndrome and it's streaking the whole middle row. People get up and they are saying curses I don't even understand.

"What are the chances this could happen? After all, these pigeons have the entire world. There was no reason that one would have to say, Man, I'm really in trouble, I gotta go, and the other one says, Well, jeez, there's a window open in that school... oh, and it looks like there's a student teacher; wouldn't that be a kick?

Ed's second observation involved the Poughkeepsie Fire Department storming into his classroom. After pleading with his cooperating teacher, Mrs. Bentley, who is 6'3" tall, Ed promises her that he will never try to teach anything to anyone. "If I have a puppy," he said, "I'll just newspaper the entire house."

Mr. Lowe did end up teaching for a few years and he told the teachers at Westhampton that thirty years later, while coming home on an 11:30 train one night, he noticed a guy staring at him. "But, that's happened before," he says. "Sometimes they mistake me for Joel Steinberg, you know, the moustache and glasses. So the guy approaches me and says, 'Were you ever a teacher?' And I answer, 'Yes.' And he says, 'Well, you were my seventh grade teacher.' And I said, 'Really? What is your name?' And then he says, 'My name is Richard Yako and you were the best teacher I ever had because you treated everyone with such respect.

"And it hit me like a piano being dropped from a building because that wasn't something I took out of a lesson plan.

In this trade, in this improvisational theatre that is teaching, or in writing, what he calls the media circus, all you ever want to do is something that matters.

The applause indicated that what Ed Lowe has to say matters very much, indeed. •

Cool (Continued from page 7)

Costello Marine was visiting. They do dock and piling repairs. And I told him about my observation and asked him if, from his experience, he thought this were true. He said he had noticed the same thing."

We're the beer in the cooler. And the water's rising.

If Perry Duryea Jr. suspects he has been seeing remarkable weather changes over the past sixty years, there is someone who has a more accurate view of it for an even longer time. This is Richard G. Hendrickson Jr. of Bridgehampton, who has been manning the official weather station, collecting data and filing reports here for seventy years. He worked on the farm his late father owned on Lumber Lane, and as a teenager began monitoring the gauges the United States Weather Service set up for him in a barn. With the passing of his father sixteen years ago — his father was in his nineties — he has just kept on doing it.

I asked Richard if this was the coldest July and August in Bridgehampton on record. And he said he keeps the records day by day and month by month, and if I wanted to I could call the National Weather Service in Brookhaven where he sends this data and they could tell me more about long term comparisons.

"I can tell you," he said, "that the summer was exceedingly cool. There were a record number of days in the seventies and sixties. From August 17 to August 21 every night it was below 58 degrees and I've never seen that before. You don't see figures like that usually until late September.

"Another remarkable phenomenon this year, perhaps overlooked because of the concern for the low temperatures, was the rain. It didn't rain for the first 25 days of July. Then in the last four days we had more than four inches. August first we had two more inches. And nearly three more inches before the month was out. Usually we average just three inches for a whole month this time of year."

Hendrickson said he was aware of all the trends. And when you talk about record meteorological events that have occurred since records were first kept, he was aware that he had experienced many of them first hand, but he did not consider himself an expert in comparing all this data.

What he did say was that considering the data he collected this summer, he could give a pretty good idea of how the crops were turning out.

"There is less sweet corn. A very small strawberry crop. Potatoes and apples should be okay, but the farmers are holding off digging early potatoes so they can get more size to them. Melons are smaller than average, and the flowers have suffered badly. They were swamped in the rains and have suffered mold and mildew. On the other hand, everything is very green now because of the rains. Trees have thrived. Lawns are good. It's beautifully green golfing weather. And the horse show this year was simply spectacular."

Was this the coldest summer on record? Officials at the weather office at the Brookhaven National Lab said there is weather data to show there was a colder summer in 1903. Teddy Roosevelt had just ordered the digging of the Panama Canal in 1903. Queen Victoria had just died.

Summer in the Hamptons? Usually, it averaged 76 degrees. This year it averaged 72. Four degrees cooler.

Somebody ought to take measurements in and out of one of those styrofoam coolers. If you put ice in where the air is eleven degrees warmer, will it cool the beer four? And how long after that do you get cold frosty ones? •

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO
"The Coke-Pepsi Battle Continues On"
September 11, 1985

Not so many years ago, there was Coca-Cola and there was Pepsi-Cola and that was it. In comparing the two, I recall that Coke drinkers would secretly argue that Pepsi-Cola made a truly great paint remover while, apparently, Coca-Cola did not. Score one for Coke. Pepsi drinkers, on the other hand, would secretly argue that Coca-Cola, by its very name, was acknowledging the fact that at one time its formula contained cocaine and that this was only removed when the Pure Food and Drug Administration stepped in.

Well, whether you wanted a shot of paint remover or cocaine, the truth was that either Pepsi or Coke was thirst quenching on a hot day in the summer time and that was that. Or maybe that wasn't supposed to be that.

Since that time in the great Cola wars, we've had the Pepsi challenge, the drinking of Coke and Pepsi aboard the Space Shuttle (Coke won), the removal of the original Coke formula and its subsequent return, and now a blizzard of products so vast it is almost impossible for a simple deli to even stock them all: Diet Coke, Classic Coke, New Coke, Diet Pepsi, Cherry Coke, Caffeine Free Pepsi, Caffeine Free Coke. Is there a Caffeine Free Diet Coke? And is the Diet Coke new formula or old?

Last week, I read where there is a horse, Star Legend, from Columbus, Ohio, who was on television to show that he preferred Pepsi over Coke. Star Legend is a three year old pacer and he runs out of Scioto Downs race track. Last fall, some of the barn crew noticed that Star Legend would stick his head out over the stall door every time they went by with a Pepsi Cola. They gave him one. He drank it. Later, they happened to give him a Coca-Cola, figuring that he wouldn't know the difference but he did. He wouldn't drink it. He wanted Pepsi and he wanted it at least once a day.

Star Legend was brought on television by his owner and breeder, Jack Howell, and was given the Pepsi challenge. Three times the television people gave Star Legend a choice of Pepsi or Coke and three times he chose the Pepsi. Not bad.

Afterwards, however, Howell commented that he thought the test was not fair because the names on the cans were not covered up. "I think that's where they cheated," Howell said. "He reads the labels."

Star Legend's trainer, on the other hand, said that with or without the labels, he would have chosen Pepsi. "I once put Coke in a Pepsi bottle," he said. "He spat it right out." Maybe he just likes paint remover. –Dan Rattiner

WIN $5000

FOR YOUR FAVORITE CHARITY,
and get recognition on the label for you by designing the winning wine label for our forthcoming Rosé of Cabernet Sauvignon!

Dress My Lady Contest Rules

What you have to do.
We have a beautiful Rosé of Cabernet Sauvignon aging gracefully at our vineyard, waiting for her release in the spring of 2001. She is a complicated, sophisticated [illegible] who defies being labeled. Your challenge is to design the label that fits her. Captures her mood, her essence, a name, give her a look, give her life.

When do you have to do it.
Our Dress My Lady Contest will run during the 2000 harvest season and will officially close at [illegible] October 31, 2000. All entries must be received by [illegible] midnight of that date. We will announce [illegible] fully, on Thanksgiving Day, 2000.

How do you do it.
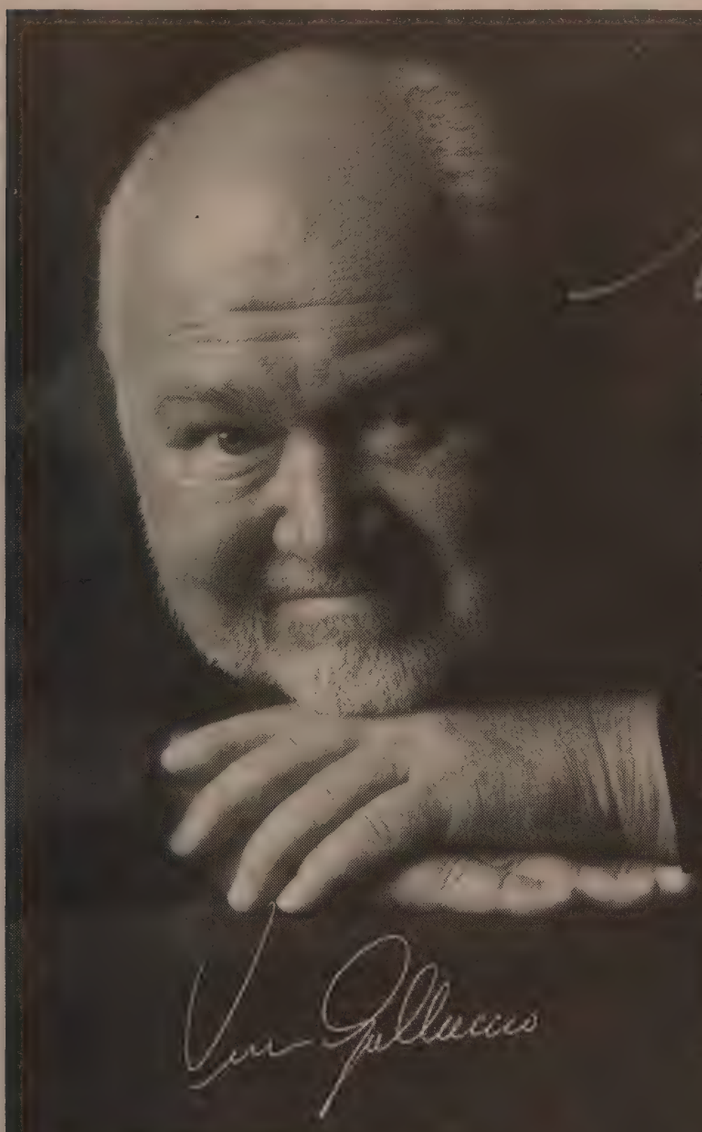
Create the [illegible] for the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]



My Rose is delightfully enticing.
Whether at home chilling by the pool,
or on your arm at the opera,
she exhibits the kind of rare qualities that have discerning suitors the world over draping her supple neck in gold.
This coming spring my lady will make her debut,
a coming out party for a most notable bloom...
Tell me how to best dress my Rose.

DRESS MY LADY.

Design the label for my Rosé of Cabernet Sauvignon.

Next Spring we will release our millennium vintage Rosé of Cabernet Sauvignon. Help us celebrate by participating in the "Dress My Lady" label design contest. You can win $5,000 for your favorite charity, and also get recognized for your effort right on the wine bottle. See the column to the left for complete contest details.

elaine k.g. benson, her daughter's column

It is said we live in the age of the computer. Judging from the number of ads and correspondence that says, "just look me up on my websight," the computer has made its way into everyday use. The fact that I don't know how to look up anything on the web is not withstanding. Not so long ago electricity seemed like magic. Now we take it for granted. Complex machines are so much a part of life that they have become a part of our commonplace daily existence. In my house, my husband was the technophile. He handled all the installations of VCRs and programming of simple appliances. To my mother something as simple as setting the clock on the VCR was an impossibly complicated procedure. I remember going into her bedroom and finding a power outage had left her with an annoying 12:00 blinking, blinking, blinking. I would reset the clock, which she never seemed to see, and didn't know how to set.

Yesterday I tried to hook my scanner to my computer and printer. I think I had all the pieces to the puzzle. After a short time I realized I was running out of time without the computer "detecting" the scanner. My idea of finally learning how to use these tools to my best advantage was shelved for another few days. I find it hard to hook up the cable to the television and VCR. For a few years I've been trying to hook up two VCRs so I can record tape to tape. Now I find myself with a few new machines that I'm trying to understand. The new digital camera has so many variables that I have yet to get through the instruction sheet. The old camcorder in the closet is also a bafflement. I remember trying to put together the gas barbecue when my husband was still alive. He found it difficult but not impossible. He said the instruction sheet was not written by an English speaking person. Technojargen seems to be understood by the new generation but I can't figure out how to play electronic games that pose no problem for three-year-olds. I'm determined to understand the tools I deal with everyday. I'm determined to learn how to download a software program onto my hard drive. I'm pretty sure I could ask any ten-year-old for help.

Baking requires following instructions to the letter. I know a few people who can make dough without measuring but for most of us a measuring cup and set of spoons make all the difference in our success rate. I can make a yeast bread or pineapple up-side-down cake without problem. I was going to make a sexist comment about understanding instructions being gender specific. Obviously that is not true. I read instructions. I follow them and when cooking it all comes out all right. What is so different about the instructions that come with all these electronic devices? I'm determined to understand.

My husband spent years trying to get me to understand the workings of the internal combustion engine. In theory we went from the solenoid through to the exhaust system. He taught me about diesel engines when I blew up the engine in my VW diesel. We toured Mexico for years. One year we blew a head gasket on a VW and toured Mexico from VW agency to VW agency. I learned a lot about compression that year. Since my husband spent all of his professional life as a photographer, he spent years teaching me about light and how to see it. Now I'm fumbling in the dark and need to borrow a teenager who can shed light on the New World.

Westhampton Performing Arts Center Hosts Bide-A-Wee's "Love on a Leash"

"Love on a Leash," sponsored by Bide-A-Wee in concert with the Westhampton Performing Arts Theatre held the event on Wednesday, August 30th. A parade of the animals on Main Street included guide dogs, greyhounds and other animals up for adoption from ARF, Kent, RSVP and Bide-A-Wee. Many came to see the parade followed by a performance of the Tommy Dorsey Band in concert. Bide-A-Wee provides shelter for homeless pets, veterinary care, low cost spay and neuter procedures and is totally committed to finding homes for the animals. It is a not for profit organization. It was a huge success and now will be an annual event with the "Parade of the Animals" followed by a Big Band concert at the Westhampton Theatre.

Wild Thing

The Child Development Center of the Hamptons Foundation for Special Children's Summer Benefit, Wild Thing 2000 was a great success and raised money for CDCH's school children with disabilities. The event featured the East End Special Players. The Players, along with the Mise Eire Irish Dancers, starred in the Celtic love story, The Legend of Dierdre at Guild Hall. It was a heart-warming and touching performance that received a 3-minute standing ovation from an audience overwhelmed with emotion.

Club Champions

The Westhampton Tennis and Sport Club held its awards party last week. This club is the venue for the extraordinarily successful East End Open, which started as a grass roots effort by Sue Katz and a few of her friends, and it has become a significant source of funds for the East End Hospice, this year bringing in over $200,000. The club awards dinner brought out all the winners and the sore losers like me...but wait 'til next year. I say.

CLASSIC CARS WITH BOB GELBER

LOVE MACHINES

To be honest, a lot of car guys are crazy. You have Chevy guys, Ford guys, Porsche guys, Ferrari guys, and folks who lust after weird cars you have never heard of. The Chevy crowd are arch-enemies of the Ford people. I've been to car shows where the Ford guys are attired in T-shirts that say in bold print, "On A Quiet Night You Can Hear A Chevy Rusting." These are Ford men always will be probably because their dad and granddad drove Fords, and somehow this family Ford heritage has been passed from father to son. The same thing with the Chevy gang. They really believe the big block 454 engine is the "Heartbeat of America." Are they right, wrong, a little nuts? I don't know, I just respect their enthusiasm for the cars they fervently worship.

Then you have the Porsche crowd, whose owners worship those German bathtubs. I admit the Porsche 911 is the most developed sports car in the world, producing the same car for thirty-one years they finally got it right. And why not? I believe even Yugo could produce a fabulous car if it had been improved over that period of time! But the Porsche fanaticism goes way beyond excellence of engineering. A lot of it is based upon the cars successful racing history, and let's be honest, the snob appeal of owning a truly trendy expensive two-seater. In the pecking order of pricy high performance automobiles, there is only one car that makes Porsche devotees humble, and that's the Italian Ferrari.

Ferrari, Maserati, Alfa Romeo, Lancia, say the car names quickly together, and by God, you're speaking Italian! There is something musical about well spoken Italian, and the word Ferrari means more than just a sports car. To the Italians, it represents the pride of building the finest sports car in the world, especially ironic in a country where 99 percent of the population can't afford to own this wonderful home-bred product. Besides being powerful and fast, every new model Ferrari ever built has been trend-setting in design, thanks mainly to the great Italian designer, Pinin Farina. In Ferrari, we have a quadruple whammy of beauty, speed, racing success and exclusivity, truly the formula for a lust object.

Owning a Ferrari is indeed a sign of wealth, surpassed only by the sight of a sixty-year old silver fox walking through the streets of St. Tropez, with a svelte bikini clad twenty-year old cutie draped around his arm. But if you really know cars, and delve beyond the image, the Ferrari is a wonderfully engineered automobile that is wrapped in designer clothes. The Porsche gang always brag "That you can use a Porsche as a daily driver, you can't do that with a Ferrari!" To that piece of Porsche pilots wisdom, I say bull! A Ferrari is as dependable as a Toyota, and a great deal of owners use them daily. The simple fact of car oneupsmanship is this: Most Ferrari owners buy their cars, most Porsche owners lease theirs. I know one guy who owns a Ferrari F-40 and F-50. These are Ferrari models that aren't streetable. His daily driver is a Bentley convertible.

Then we have the group who love old British sports cars, with all their idiosyncrasies: Jaguars don't start in the morning, MG's and Austin Healeys that rust away as you drive, with wire wheels that loose their roundness. All tight little buggers that in convertible form shake, rattle and roll as you ride down a rough road. However, it is these small imperfections that give a car character, and British automobiles do indeed have a charm about them that far compensates for mechanical inconvenience. The very fact that many British collector cars would not hold up to the daily driver routine. (They didn't even when new!) underlines the fact that they're very special sunny weekend show and tell cars. They have style, grace and most important, they are affordable. Always have been, and always will be. British collector cars have a very strong following here, and obviously, in England. But the big surprise is that the Japanese also go absolutely bonkers over these cars. Perhaps they're tired of all their car products looking like they should be packaged in egg cartons, and are searching for some really distinctive shapes.

"Man has made machines to do his bidding," but sometimes when I hear that it took three years to restore a car, or I see a polished aluminum Beechcraft T-34 Mentor, which I know takes a week to polish every month, or hear tales of a guy caulking and painting his wood boat every year, I sometimes wonder if it's not the other way around!

Shop 'til You Drop ... With Maria Tennariello

Cooler weather? Not really! Looking at fall fashions and merchandise last weekend made the summer sales look mighty. So let's do some shopping.

Starting out in Sag Harbor, I stopped at The Ideal Stationery store on Main Street. Gary and Terry have quite a neat store here and it is filled to the rafters with great office and art supplies, fine personal stationary Hallmark cards, gift wrapping, packing and shipping supplies, fax and UPS service, lots of great little gifts like photo frames, stuffed animals, and more. If you're looking for any newspaper or magazine, the bet is on that you will find what you're looking for here. Stop in and say hi!

Look for warm cozy nights with Waterford fine porcelain enamel, cast iron stoves from Ireland at The Sag Harbor Fireplace Showroom on Bay Street in Sag Harbor. At Sag Harbor Fireplace there is a large selection to choose from to fit everyone's price range.

At Hampton Accents on Main Street in Southampton is having a spectacular storewide sale with great deals on furnittire and accessories. Take a look, I'm sure there is something there just for you.

Hildreth's Department Store is doing it again! The "summer clearance sale" is hot, hot with up to 50% off on their merchandise. Located on Main Street in Southampton, Clearance Center on North Main Street and their House and Garden store on Montauk Highway in Bridgehampton.

John Rogers Outlet on Main Street in Southampton features hand-crafted teak reproductions along with exciting new accessories for your home. Look for overstocks, factory seconds and special purchase. You will love this shop.

Driving through Bridgehampton's Main Street, I couldn't help but notice Aimee's Closet, "Fall Sale." All the summer dresses, shirts and accessories are a cool 20% to 50% off along with her jewelry from around the world and great gift items at 20% off. Nicely tucked between the Library and Starbucks, Aimee's Closet is open every day from 10:30 to 6 p.m. so that you can shop 'til, well you know the rest, finding the best buys. Don't forget to ask about her preferred customer mailing list to get updates about upcoming fall and Christmas specials. Call for information at 537-7012.

For more high fashion and warmth check out ruana drama at Mark, Fore & Strike on Main Street in East Hampton. Their ruano in 100% worsted wool, makes a fall statement at $49.50. Pair with a mock turtleneck $39, and smart wool pants $79. What a great fall outfit!

Hot off the press, East Hampton Village is the setting for the 14th annual Historic Mulford Farm Antiques Show and Sale on Saturday, September 16, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. There will be more than seventy-five antique dealers, from seven states, with furniture, decorative accessories, porcelains, garden and architectural selections, country items, lamps and lighting, jewelry, antique linens and much more. Jean Sinenberg, owner of Georgica Creek Antiques in Wainscott, is the founder of this great outdoor, should not be missed, event. For information call 537-0333.

Until next week. Ciao and Happy Fall Shopping!

OBON Festival

A BENEFIT FOR PEACEFUL DWELLING PROJECT

Saturday September 16, 2000 4 pm sharp

at 29 West End Road, East Hampton

OBON is a traditional Buddhist Day of Remembrance for those who have died.

•The names of friends and relatives who have died are inscribed on a rice-paper lantern. •During the ceremony names will be chanted and each of us will have a chance to offer incense to honor their memory. •Afterwards, the lantern will be set adrift on the ocean as we bid farewell. •Refreshments following ceremony.

Please join us on this joyous and uplifting occasion.

$35. per person; $45. at the door; children free.

Call 324-3736 for information and reservations.

All donations are tax-deductible and will fund retreats for persons with life-challenging illness.

ART COMMENTARY

With Marion Wolberg Weiss

GROUP EXHIBIT AT CLAYTON LIBERATORE

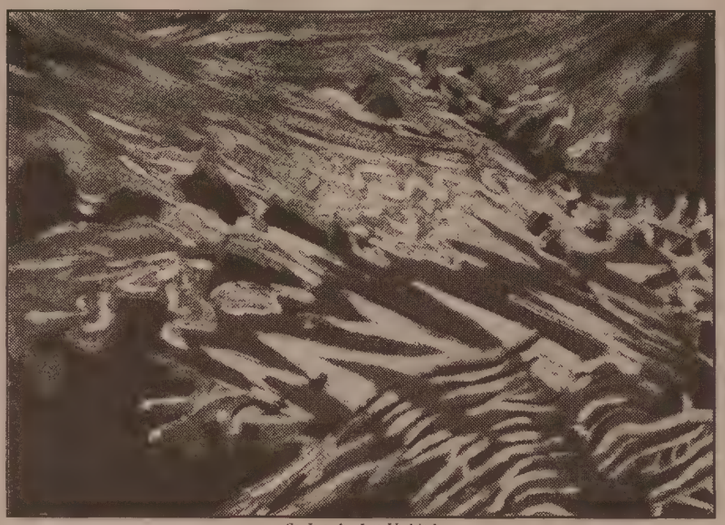
While it's not readily apparent that there's a common theme running through the current show at Bridgehampton's Clayton Liberatore Gallery, all the works feature landscape in some way. Some are literal landscapes (Ms. Verbitsky's, Ms. Morris' and Ms. Fellows'), and some draw upon a particular backdrop/ context (Ms. Capello's and Ms. Arms').

Irra Verbitsky's drawings done while on an art tour sponsored by the Pollock-Krasner House last May, 1999, hold special interest for this critic who was a participant. Thus, the images conjure up treasured memories: looking at sunrise overlooking Porthmeor Beach; trekking along the Coastal Path; seeing the jagged Lizard's Point. Ms. Verbitsky captures both Cornwall's sensuousness and its Celtic past as she also evokes a universal feelings of endurance and change. The quick strokes made on location are translated most effectively in the final renditions.



St. Ives by Irra Verbitsky

Oils and watercolors by Constance Moor are evocative landscapes, too, but closer to home this time. Even so, they do not recall feelings and emotions (like Ms. Verbitsky's) as much as they jar our memories for specific experiences (winter, for example). Our favorites, however, are her still-lifes, with their lush, warm tones. They provide quite a contrast to the winter setting envisioned by the artist.

Rural landscapes by Karen Fellows feature local scenes and familar seasons: old barns, country lanes, summer and winter. Her "Spring House View" gives us a bird's-eye-view which remains an unusual perspective in local landscapes.

Linda Capello's figure drawings are always a pleasure to see, but she has presented one in an exterior environment which is a bit unusual. The female is overlooking the sea, suggesting a possible narrative. This engages the viewer in a different way from the artist's past works, where attention is drawn to her craftmanship.

Anneli Arms' monoprints feature a subtle landscape as well: underwater life and some fish that inhabit it. These examples are endowed with human traits representing the "good, bad and ugly" of the sea world so to speak. We have the beautiful and playful butterfly fish, the threatening onca and the evil moray. Ms. Arms' fish (like her sculpture) is a delightful use of personification.

The show will be at the Clayton Liberatore Gallery until September 30.

Guy de Fraumeni's HOLLYWOOD in The Hamptons

RUNAWAY PRODUCTIONS AND HAMPTONITES

Way up here in Victoria, British Columbia, I am afforded another perspective on so-called "Made in America" movies. Away back there in the flashy Hamptons where we are bordered by glittery waters (as here) we are also elbow-to-elbow with shiny, world class movie makers and stars and this makes us quite hip and savvy to the real thing and the make believe in the celluloid world. So, you are aware (as they are here) that many locations that are supposed to be U.S.A. are actually Canadian. Why? For one thing, every U.S. dollar gets $1.50 Canadian dollars. As well as a great money break, facilities and staffs here are Grade A. So, aside from milking the economy, the movie makers have loads of other incentives. But, many movie buffs keep asking, "Why in the world does a brilliant star like Kim Basinger, leave her cozy home in the Hamptons and go to Canada to do a movie as patently mediocre as Bless The Child ?"

A HELLUVA TOWN - NEW YORK OR TORONTO?

Why did Ms. Basinger leave leisurely Amagansett, U.S.A. for work-a-day Toronto, Canada (the kind-of-look alike stand in for New York City)? Didn't she read the script? Didn't she realize that it was just another chiller-thriller, composing of Satan vs. God movies like Rosemary's Baby, The Omen and The Exorcist and Etc. Etc.? I think she did it to work... to work at her profession.

O.K., so the novel, the movie was derived from, by Cathy Cash Spellman was drivel. O.K., so the film tries to be Touched By An Angel and have a Sixth Sense about it. O.K.! already ! So, Ms. Basinger tries to brighten (with the help of some amber fill lights) the murky-turkey quality of the movie, O.K.! So, this "Baby" is different from Rosemary's. This baby is "possessed" by GOD! and can combat satanic evil! Therefore, Satan's worshipers (here led by the formerly gooey-romantic Brit, Rufus Sewell... he, of the goo-goo-googily eyes), desperately need her on their side so, they make New York (Toronto) Sin City and Hell for Kim and her foster child, the godly one, also valiantly played by precious l'il girl, Hollister Coleman. Kim and Hollister are besieged by tons of rats, bats, blazing candles and razed rooftops and all the usual suspicious special effects. Does it suffice if I tell you that "Baby" was foisted upon Kim by her drug-addicted sister at Christmas and the child was "special"?

Bless The Child

BRINGING UP BABY-A DEVIL OF A JOB

Rufus Doofus has to get baby on the side of the Devil... a much bigger job than potty training . For this he must make some sacrifices. Like, sacrifice baby at the Altar on Easter. Kim must save the child. She gets a little help from Jimmy Smits, as a seminarian, F.B.I. Man. Also assisting are Christina Ricci and a Jesus-like construction worker. Unfortunately, the director's idea of assistance is to throw in an exploding auto. Oh Mama! What did Kim do to get into this mess... and why?

Reportedly, Humphrey Bogart said often, "The important thing is to work and keep working." In his final years, before his untimely death in 1958, he did at least a movie a year . . . even as the industry was in a steep decline. Less than a year before his death, he was slated to do a movie that would co-star him, once more, with his "Baby", Betty (Lauren) Bacall, then raising their two kiddies. He was not able to do it. Cancer is painful, but, the pain of not being able to make that film must have really hurt.

Kim Basinger and husband Alec Baldwin were, comparably, lucky to work together in the remake of Sam Peckinpaw's The Getaway. Finicky critics say it was a mistake. Was it? Ms. Basinger has won an Oscar with the right film ( L.A. Confidential ) and, she and Mr. Baldwin, seemingly working on Bogey's premise, are doing just fine. It should be considered that Bogart got to do High Sierra and Casablanca because they were turned down by "STARS". He was cast in The Maltese Falcon, because George Raft would not do a movie with a first time director... John Huston. Bogey was canny enough to work at his craft, do the job as professionally as possible and try to get everyone else to do the same. So, O.K.! It doesn't always work out. O.K.?

Guy-Jean de Fraumeni is the producer of award-winning films for ABC, NBC, PBS and European Feature Films. He has judged the major motion picture and TV award competitions. He is assisted in his column by Sarah Halsey.

Take Five 2000

with Jan Silver

We hope the weather cooperates this weekend for Sag Harborfest and the Cartier Grand Slam/American Cancer Society events (amateurs' tennis competitions, an exhibition match with Rosie Casals and a Saturday night party). Bay Street Theatre's Saturday booking of Streisand impersonator Jim Brinberg is sold out, but on Sunday afternoon the talented Eroica Trio returns to Bay Street for a concert.

There is an antiques show at the East Hampton Historical Society's Mulford Farm on Saturday and, weather permitting, there will be an exhibit of restored classic planes plus National Guard demo flights for "Just Plane Fun" day at East Hampton Airport on Saturday. The Southampton Historical Museum has a "Fall Family Festival" on Saturday (for details, call 283-2494), and Southampton's Parrish Art Museum has a family day on Sunday from 1 to 4 p.m. with large puppets, games, face painting and food concessions (children are requested to wear animal costumes). The Southampton Cultural Center holds its "End of Summer Gala" at the Shinnecock Hills Golf Club on Saturday evening (call 287-4377 for tickets).

MUSIC

Pianist Erika Nickrenz, violinist Adela Pena and cellist Sara Sant'Ambrogio are the Eroica Trio, winner of the prestigious Naumburg International Chamber Music Competition in 1991. Since then, they have played all over the United States to great acclaim. Their programs include selections from the classic chamber music repertory and contemporary work. On Sunday at 3 p.m. in the Bay Street Theatre, they will play Bach, Brahms, Piazzolla and Villa-Lobos. For tickets ($32), call the Bay Street box office at (631) 725-9500.

This weekend, the musical action at local clubs and restaurants includes Mother Freedom at Amagansett's Stephen Talkhouse on Friday, Nancy Atlas on Saturday. In Bridgehampton, there's mellow jazz on Friday evening at Kiplings, hotter bands Thursday through Saturday at The Wild Rose, and dance music at Bridges on weekends (plus the Sunday gospel brunch). Stefanie Cardinali, Paul Gene and Rick Salter perform swing music at Montauk's Oyster Pond on Friday. Hansom House in Southampton has live performances on weekends.

SPEAKERS

The Moby Dick reading marathon, started 20 years ago by Canio Pavone, began Thursday night at Sag Harbor's John Jermain Library. The entire Melville classic will be read publicly by volunteers between 9 a.m. and 9 p.m. daily. At Canio's Books in Sag Harbor, poets Fran Kastan, Jan Freeman and Dave Caserio will read on Saturday at 6 p.m. On Sunday at 2 p.m., poet Vince Clemente will read at Canio's.

Dr. Ronald Dushkin, a practioner of complementary (alternative) medicine, will give a workshop on "Natural Healing and Homeopathy" at the Ross Institute's Center for Well-Being (off Route 114 in East Hampton) on Saturday from 3 to 5 p.m. Participants will learn about the benefits and application of homeopathic medicine. The workshop is $20; for information, call (631) 329-5245.

SPECIAL EVENTS

Hard to believe, but this is the seventh Cartier Grand Slam tennis weekend for the American Cancer Society. The event starts at Southampton's Meadow Club on Friday evening where amateur tennis players who have signed on for the mixed doubles tournament get their court assignments for Saturday. Matches are Saturday morning on private courts followed by lunch at East Hampton Indoor Tennis, an exhibition match with retired tennis great Rosie Casals at 1 p.m., and then finals and consolation rounds on Saturday afternoon. In the evening, there is a buffet cocktail party at the Bridge Gardens Trust, Bridgehampton, with WNBC-TV anchorwoman Jane Hanson as honorary chairperson. For tickets to the evening party ($150 donation), call the American Cancer Society at (631) 287-6277.

Sag Harborfest weekend began Thursday with the nonstop (9 a.m. until 9 p.m.) reading of Moby Dick at the John Jermain Library (it continues through Saturday!). There is a lobster-and-clam dinner under a tent at the Sag Harbor Whaling Museum on Friday evening ($50 donation; call 725-5132 or 725-0770 for tickets). Saturday and Sunday, there are whaleboat races, a clam-shucking and beard-growing contest, a parade, children's fair and fishing derby. For a complete schedule, call 725-0011.

silvia lehrer's cooking column

When my husband announced that he would make some smashed potatoes for dinner, my ten-year-old grandson jumped for joy. And I had just the right kind, the buttery Yukon Gold.

These newly harvested potatoes from our local fields are showing up at farm stands and supermarkets all over the East End. I recently purchased a ten-pound bag for $1.99 at a local supermarket marked with the name of a recognizable local farm in Water Mill. The overriding consideration in choosing a potato usually isn't flavor but freshness.

Yukon Gold, Idaho or Russets are great in either smashed or mashed potatoes. Smashed as opposed to mashed fits the natural, low-fat, smash in the pan lifestyle of today. After cooking, my husband smashes the potatoes with their skins, crushing them with an old-fashioned potato masher. Not too lumpy, thank you, but we do like the texture of the crushed skins. A drizzle of extra-virgin olive oil, salt and pepper is all the taste embellishment necessary. If you like, spoon on a dollop of basil puree or roasted garlic for an extra dimension of flavor.

I roasted Yukon Gold potatoes in a hot oven with a coating of olive oil, garlic and rosemary until crispy and golden. This was another smashing way to use up my ten-pound bag.

SMASHED YUKON GOLD POTATOES

Buttery Yukon Gold potatoes are the perfect choice for newly chic, smashed potatoes. Top with optional dressing of basil or roasted garlic puree, if desired.
Serves 6

2 pounds Yukon Gold potatoes
Coarse (kosher) salt
1 1/2 tablespoons extra-virgin olive oil
Freshly ground pepper

1. Scrub the unpeeled potatoes under cold running water to remove all traces of soil, and cut into quarters. Place them in a large pot, and add enough cold water to cover by about to two inches. Bring to a boil and add a couple of teaspoons of salt. With cover ajar, simmer briskly about 16-18 minutes until tender when pierced with a wooden skewer or small paring knife.

2. Drain the potatoes and return them to the saucepan they were cooked in. Smash them with an old-fashioned potato masher until still a bit coarse. Pour over olive oil and season with salt and pepper to taste. Stir with a large fork to distribute seasonings and serve hot. Serve with a dollop of basil puree or squeeze over the sweetened soft pulp of roasted garlic, if desired.

Optional dressings:

BASIL PUREE

1 cup basil leaves, washed and dried
2 cloves garlic
3-4 tablespoons extra-virgin olive oil
Coarse (kosher) salt to taste

1. Put basil leaves in a food processor or blender with the garlic cloves and process until crushed. Pour the oil in a thin steady stream, through the cover opening, until mixture is smooth and a bit runny. Add salt to taste and process briefly to mix.

WHOLE ROASTED GARLIC

2 heads garlic
Olive oil

Preheat oven to 350 degrees.

1. Rub off outer peppery skins and with a large, sharp knife, cut the tops of the garlic heads to expose a bit of the cloves. Arrange the heads upright in an oiled baking dish and drizzle heads with a little oil. Place 3-4 tablespoons water in the dish. Cover securely with foil and bake about 1 hour and fifteen minutes until garlic is completely soft.

ROASTED YUKON GOLD POTATOES

Slice, season and roast to a crispy goodness.
Serves 6-8

Extra-virgin olive oil
Coarse (kosher) salt and freshly ground pepper
3 pounds Yukon Gold potatoes, peeled
Paprika
3-4 garlic cloves, thinly sliced
2-3 tablespoon finely chopped flat-leaf, Italian parsley

Preheat oven to 400 degrees.

1. Brush a large baking sheet with a little oil to coat and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Slice the potatoes thin, less than a quarter of an inch, if possible, but not paper thin.

2. Arrange them on the baking sheet with a bit of space between the slices. Lightly sprinkle potatoes with a light coating of oil, salt, pepper and paprika. Bake in preheated oven for 20-25 minutes. Pull the baking sheet from the oven shelf and scatter the sliced garlic over the potatoes. Return to oven and bake for 20-25 minutes longer, until crisp and golden. Serve immediately.

The summer is over and we would like to thank those who helped make our first season special:

- The staff who opened the doors with us and gave their "heart and soul" through Labor Day.
- Most important our customers:
  - Those who were with us from the beginning and have been coming back week after week.
  - Those who helped create the amazing demand day after day throughout July and August.
  - Those who have been here over the past 10 days, creating the surprising and very gratifying crowds after Labor Day.

And now to the future:

Our real season begins this Friday, September 16th, when we introduce an expanded menu selection:

- New Brasserie Fall menu
- Prix-fixe dinner menu Sunday - Thursday @ $22.50
- Bar menu at dinner - all items around $10
- 2 for 1 Happy Hour Sunday - Friday 5:30 -7:00

And of course, our breakfast and lunch selections available seven days/week

Once again, thank you to everyone who helped re-create "Paradise" in Sag Harbor over these past few months. We look forward to providing you a great experience throughout the Fall & Winter and for years to come.

Dining IN THE HAMPTONS

Savanna's
268 Elm Street, Southampton
283-0202

As our family passed under deep awnings and entered the dining room of Savanna's Restaurant on Elm Street, a feeling of Southern nostalgia came over the three of us. Thanks to the ingratiating host, Roberto, we were seated by a window, opposite the Southampton railroad station. So, when the 8:30 p.m. train magically rolled into the depot, it glowed in the dark with its incandescent lights, just beyond the succession of rose bushes that follows the length of the building.

"The Magic Train," one of us mumbled under breath.

This one large room, set off with grand columns, is romantically decorated in dramatic contrast with its high painted-white wainscot ceiling and it's dark, rich mahogany floor. The lazy spin of the wood fans and the creaking of the wood chairs made us feel like we were at grandma's house in Georgia. Lofty vases of splendid flowery bouquets stood taller than bookends at each end of the bar, among palms and strategically placed works of art.

As diners clanked glasses and moved about their white linen tables adorned with fresh sunflowers, the traditional feel left us with a secure appetite for recipes that promised the good-old-honest cooking we remember from years ago.

Although the air was heavy on this particular August evening, some diners chose to escape outside through the French doors onto the expansive, lovely veranda overlooking the residential surroundings.

How lucky for us to get Jason as our waiter, so charming and gracious every time he approached the table, and he did so, quite often. He explained what goes on in the most important room in the establishment — the kitchen. "It's all about teamwork," he said. The head chef, Barry Gladman, and Sous chef, Javier Sanchez, from Mexico, compliment each other, working on new ideas and experimentation, while using old recipes. He also said that many customers order side dishes to try as many of the menus' temptations as possible.

We were more than tempting our taste buds, we were satiating them with the best of the best. For appetizers, we pampered ourselves with: roasted portobello mushrooms with arugula, crispy schiacciata, balsamic vinegar, basil oil and warm goat cheese, fresh black mussels with white wine, crushed red pepper, garlic, bacon, spinach, and toasted parsley crumbs (you have to dip your bread in this - a guaranteed 'eye-roller;' fried Local calamari with spicy arrabbiata sauce and fresh lemon. The salad we chose (my favorite) was the delectable warm lobster salad with marinated tomatoes, beets, crispy bacon, red onions, and balsamic vinaigrette.

For entrees, it was the freshest of the freshest: broiled Chilean sea bass with haricot, vert, roasted garlic, orzo pasta, onions, toasted parsley crumbs, and fresh sundried tomato paste, the jumbo lump crab cake, (nice and chunky) with sauteed spinach and mashed carrots, was perhaps the best I've had in my life. The generous portion of horse-radish crusted yellowtail snapper with eggplant Milanese, sauteed spinach, peas and herb sauce was ample with a variety of vegetables and flavors.

"Wow, I just got a buzz," my son said as he put his fork down.

Savanna's, realizing there is no steakhouse in the immediate area, also has a big hit with their very impressive steak menu. We only wish we had room to indulge.

The service was incredible, as the waiters constantly refilled our glasses, seeing to it, that we were content.

Content? That's an understatement. By the time the desserts came, we were in heaven. And that's just what the cheesecake was – light and heavenly. We also enjoyed the warm apple crisp with cinnamon ice cream and the black forest cake.

We were unwinding from the feast with a great selection of herbal teas that soothed and comforted us. The night was special and so is Savanna's.

As we were ready to leave, the bubbly hostess, Bridget, stopped us. "I have a great memory of Dan's Papers," she said. When I first moved here from Florida I saw the colorful and happy cover of Dan's, picked it up, and unexpectedly, that's where I found a place to live out here. So, Dan's helped me a lot."

Open daily for dinner at 5:00, brunch Saturday and Sunday 10:30 to 2:00. They also offer a price fix menu, which includes Pinot Grigio or Merlot every night. Savanna's is seasonal, so call and make a reservation soon before winter sets in and you miss out.

While in Palm Beach, do stop by their other locations: "Amici" and "Galaxy Grille" on South Country Road. I have a funny feeling, they do it right, north or south.

Cartier Grand Slam Tennis Tournament

Cartier, the international jeweler, will sponsor the seventh Cartier Grand Slam, a mixed doubles charity tennis tournament benefiting the American Cancer Society, Eastern Division. The tournament will take place on Saturday and Sunday, September 16 and 17. Jane Hanson, news anchor for WNBC-TV's Today in New York, is Honorary Chair and Anne Z. Easton is the Tournament Chair.

Opening-round competition will begin Saturday, September 16, featuring mixed-doubles matches on twenty-four private courts from Southampton to East Hampton. Competition will take place in both "A" and "B" skill levels to assure broad-based participation among area players. Some of the notables lending their courts include: Peter Jennings, Brownlee Currey, Dr. Barry Weintraub and Clive Chajet.

On Friday evening, September 15, participants are asked to stop by the Meadow Club in Southampton to receive their Cartier VIP gift bags and tennis court assignments. Saturday evening a gala cocktail buffet will be held at the Bridge Gardens Trust – the first benefit to be held in these magical gardens. Located in the heart of Bridgehampton, Bridge Gardens Trust was created as a charitable corporation to maintain and preserve the gardens, which are divided by two rows of fifteen foot high privet hedges into Inner and Outer gardens. The gala tent will be placed between the Rose Rondel – with its 800 varieties of roses and the Lavender beds and guests will be invited to tour Bridge Gardens during the event. Guests expected to attend include: Rosie Casals, Jane Hanson, Honorary Chair, Judy Licht, Jerry Della Femina, Peter Jennings, Lynn Sherr and Bill Beutel.

The annual Cartier Grand Slam Legend Award will be presented to tennis great Rosie Casals. Ms. Casals is one of the pioneers of women's tennis and founder of the Women's Tennis Association and Women's Sports Legends, Inc. She holds twelve Grand Slam titles, seven Wimbledon doubles titles and four U.S. Open titles. She was the winner of the Virginia Slims event in Houston in 1970 and captured the title at the first Family Circle Cup in 1973. In honor of her achievements Rosie Casals was inducted into the International Tennis Hall of Fame in 1996 and was part of the "Original Nine" who helped establish equality for women in tennis.

Championship rounds in both levels will be held Sunday at East Hampton Indoor Tennis in Wainscott. Specially created Cartier trophies will be presented to all winners at the concluding ceremony.

In addition to the tournament, consolation rounds will take place at East Hampton Indoor tennis on Saturday afternoon, for those players who do not qualify for the second rounds, guaranteeing everyone a full day of tennis.

The previous six tournaments raised well over $500,000, enabling the American Cancer Society to establish the first office in Southampton, which provides patients and family services to the East End communities.

The Cartier Grand Slam Tournament is expected to sell out. Tickets are $300 for the entire weekend and $100 for the gala only and will be sold on first-come, first-served basis. To reserve tickets, Please call the American Cancer Society at 287-6277.

English Hospitality

Sometimes when life throws you a left hook, you try to rationalize and solve the great mystery of why it happened in the first place. In my situation, my left hook has given me the wonderful opportunity and adventure to find good massage therapists, chiropracters and spas, for my own personal therapy. Having the great fortune of being able to travel a bit, exploring the holistic arts in Europe, seemed just the thing to do while antique shopping and visiting the relatives.

Bath was our second stop after the shows in Newark. We booked our stay at the Royal Crescent. A fabulous old hotel , shaped like a crescent, sitting on top of a hill, overlooking the beautiful city of Bath. Warm, welcoming and seductively peaceful, with gardens and flowers everywhere. Flowers were selectively chosen for their fragrance to scent the rooms while you waited for your accomodations to be set. The staff was gracious and attentive. The green gardens and lawns provided a wonderful atmosphere of calm.

The Spa area was all sandstone and wood. Zen-like atmosphere, no music, just quite. The large pool had a very pleasing temperature, not too cold or warm, bath like. Prior to my salt treatment, water therapy was recommended. A dip in the hot tub, a dip in the cool tub, and then a swim in the pool. All done in complete silence and gentleness and serenity. This really should be included in all therapies. My therapist, Linda, welcomed me, instructed me completely as to what did what, inquired about my initial state of health prior to my treatment for precautions, and followed me through the entire day of bliss.

The first treatment was a salt application. Using a mixture of almond oil, castor oil and advocado oils, the salts were gently applied to specific areas of the body and rubbed with focus and intent to exfoliate dead cuticle. The treatment was not messy, invasive or abrasive, just focused and kind. Water was then poured and sprayed to remove the oils and salt and I was left feeling very nurtured and relaxed. Next it's off to the massage room, after drinking a very tasty mixture of water, honey, ginger and orange, refreshing and good. The massage room was prepared with soft lighting, spaced wood planking in between stone walls. A single bed was invitingly covered with a beautiful white sheet and towels folded to perfection with a few sprigs of lavander placed on the pillow. Preferences were discussed, pressure and the types of oils to be used were decided upon and a proper Swedish massage commenced. It was genuine. Linda's focus was directed toward the heart, centripedal, with a strong, confident stroke and a very relaxed hand. I was very impressed. Linda was compassionate, confident and professional.

Conversation was quiet, and Linda had her focus on my needs on the table, areas of stress and pain. It was also very comforting to have the same therapist throughout the day, it is a very trusting feeling especially when so far away and not being familiar of the surroundings.

Although it was just a two-hour experience, I felt as though I was there for days being pampered. I was not rushed, or dismissed. Little things were executed with care. A sprig of lavander, folded towels, explanations of treatments being performed and a very good focused massage made a trip back to the Royal Crescent a most needed part of my next journey back to the beautiful country of England.

October is National Breast Cancer Awareness Month

Did you know...

Breast cancer is the leading cause of cancer deaths among women ages 40-59. It is the leading cancer site among American women and is second only to lung cancer in cancer deaths. During the year 2000, 182,800 women will be diagnosed with breast cancer, and 40,800 women will die of breast cancer.

The most proven and significant risk factors are being female and getting older. The majority of women with breast cancer have no known significant family history or other known risk factors. Only 5-10% of breast cancers are due to heredity. Most women who are diagnosed with breast cancer survive the disease. If detected early, breast cancer is a curable disease.

Early detection and treatment offer the best chance currently available for surviving breast cancer. The following steps are recommended:

- Annual screening mammography beginning by age 40 and continuing throughout your life.
- Clinical breast examination at least every 3 years beginning at age 20 and annually after age 40.
- Monthly breast self-examination beginning by age 20.

EAST END FARMING WITH JOE GERGELA

LIFB's elected president, Howard Johnson, testified this week at an AgBiotech hearing held by Senator Kenneth LaValle at SUNY Farmingdale. The hearings addressed the impacts of biotechnology on the environment, the impact of a moratorium on New York State and whether or not the federal regulations are sufficient. I am including excerpts of his testimony in this column because the issue of biotechnology is one that has long standing implications for our society, and for our farms on Long Island.

"It may seem to the average consumer that agricultural biotechnology is a completely new concept, but if you take an historical view of the development of agriculture, biotechnology simply gives us the tools to move a few steps ahead in this ever-changing world. Ever since humans began cultivating crops for food, we have utilized new technology to improve on the production of food and hence our lifestyles. In agriculture, this means farmers and scientists have been using technology to breed animals and plants that are better suited to our environment and to our food needs.

"Plant breeding as a science was revolutionized in the 1800's by Gregor Mendel, whose experiments with peas formed the basis for all of our advances in understanding modern genetics and the principle of heredity. Since then, we have made remarkable advances in agriculture, thereby freeing a substantial amount of the population to move into cities. Now we see people moving out of the cities and into suburban and rural areas, but away from direct production of food, simply because, through technological advances, farmers have been able to feed more and more people. In 1919, Eugene Davenport, Dean of the University of Illinois Agricultural Experiment Station, wrote in Farm Knowledge, 'By breeding from the best, the offspring is nearer what is wanted than would have been the case had the blood lines been left to accident.'

"Agricultural biotechnology is simply a fancy name for continued improvements in the tools used to breed better varieties of crops more suited to meet consumer and environmental demands. The basic concept of biotechnology is simple. For example, in the past, fruit breeders desiring to create a new variety more resistant to a certain insect would cross breed a plant that exhibited strong resistance to that insect with one that produced better fruit.

"As a farmer with long standing roots and family ties to Long Island, I have seen the faces in the agricultural industry change throughout the years, along with the farms. Where once we had a tremendous amount of potato and duck producers, we now have only a few left, and in many cases we find that houses and commercial properties are growing in places where farm fields used to stand.

"Consumers on Long Island want the open space that farms provide, and we have been fortunate in having garnered support for funding to purchase development rights. However, they also are concerned about pesticide usage, and about getting the proper nutrients from the limited fresh fruits and vegetables that they eat. Agricultural biotechnology allows farmers to keep producing food to meet our needs, with less pesticide usage and of a better nutritional quality.

"A farmer I recently spoke with told me that his landlord requested that no herbicides be applied to the soil. The farmer grows field corn, so he was able to plant BT corn that allowed the use of Roundup, a contact herbicide used on the plant rather than the soil. This alternative was acceptable to the landlord. Without this option, that farmland would probably be non-productive and covered with weeds, or, worse yet, developed and lost forever to agriculture.

"Farmers are faced with a dilemma. Consumers expect, demand and deserve higher quality food with greater nutritional value, and produced using fewer pesticides. The trap is that the majority of these consumers will not pay the additional costs for local produce. We all know that the cost of living is higher on Long Island and in New York than in most other areas. In order to be competitive with low cost producers, we must maintain our ability to access cutting edge, safe technology that will allow us to keep farming in an environmentally responsible and economically feasible manner."

Howard welcomed an interest in learning more about agricultural biotechnology. "As a farmer, I am continually amazed at the new developments in my field, and I personally am glad that New York has such a great research institution in Cornell University, Cooperative Extension, and SUNY Farmingdale, which will help position New York's agriculture and biotechnology research as a leader in the United States. However, I am concerned that we do not fall victim to a 'Luddite' mentality, and simply reject new technology through the imposition of unnecessary moratoriums. We need more research, and I am pleased to learn that SUNY Farmingdale, with the assistance of Senator Fuscillo, is in the process of creating a Biopark right on this campus. I do have grave concerns about the movement to regulate biotechnology in agriculture over and above the existing regulations, and over and above our regulations of other biotechnological uses in medicine and other applications.

"It is critical that we use sound science in evaluating agricultural biotechnology, and that, as we move forward, we become more cognizant of the needs of organic farmers and help them retain their certification. We cannot, however, ignore the importance of new technology to our farms, and to the children whose nutritional needs will be met through biotechnology. It is our collective responsibility – as senators, as farmers and as consumers – to give this issue the careful consideration it is due by listening to researchers and scientists, and not inflammatory statements refuting biotechnology simply because it's a new issue to advocate against."

Howard urged the Senator to reconsider the Senate bill, S.6899, in light of the federal regulations already existing, and choose instead to invest in our future as a leader in biotechnology – in medicine, in agriculture, in all industries – and to increase the development of environmentally friendly products through biotechnology.

POLICE BLOTTER

As if public urination isn't a heinous enough crime, in this instance, the perpetrator decided to relieve himself on the tire of a police car parked behind the Grill restaurant in East Hampton. The officer saw this despicable desecration of public property and arrested the teenager for disorderly conduct.

An East Hampton woman called the police to report an intruder in her Rose Avenue home. The intruder was her neighbor's dog. The criminal canine apparently did not steal anything, and no arrests were made.

In other menacing crimes in East Hampton, inhabitants of Meadow Way called the police to report several structures built in the street. The structures were built by neighborhood children as a makeshift skateboard park, and included ramps, pipes and slide rails. The Town of East Hampton Highway Department quickly dispatched a road crew to remove the traffic obstructing structures. The angry parents of the apparently upset children quickly called the Highway Department to complain. Since there were no building permits granted for the street structures, they remained removed.

A Montauk woman reported to police that her purse, which contain $216 was stolen from her Second House Road apartment. According to police, Michelle Dixon said she let a man use her bathroom. After the bathroom bandit left, she noticed the purloined purse.

* * *

In Amagansett, a visiting Manhattan woman was in her bedroom at 4 a.m., when a man entered her room and began massaging her shoulders. He apparently was not much of a masseur, and after being asked several times to leave, he did. She then alerted her housemates and realized that while the unknown masseuse distracted her, her wallet disappeared from the kitchen. The wallet contained somewhere between $250 and $350, a check for $35 and miscellaneous cards. Police are investigating.

* * *

The flag filcher was in Montauk again. This time three flags were filched from a South Fairview Ave flagpole. The flags filched were an Irish flag, a Montauk flag and the Stars and Stripes.

* * *

Angel Pinacela's 1988 Honda went from end to end. The Montauk resident lent the car to his sister, who then let two of her male friends drive it. A week later, the car turned up on a Manhattan street, in less than perfect condition. Police are looking for the Honda heisting suspects.

* * *

Also in the Sportfishing Capital of the World, what police are calling a feud between bar owners has led to a dark bar. The owner of Sixmilecross on West Lake Drive noticed that his lights were not working well, and went outside to investigate. It seems that someone removed his electric meter, and it was not LIPA.

* * *

At the Mill Creek Marina in Noyac, a pirate boarded four sailboats and removed their outboard motors. However, instead of taking the valuable motors, the pirate made them walk the plank, and tossed them overboard. Two of the motors have been recovered.

* * *

A short distance down Noyack Road, in the village of Sag Harbor, the Long Wharf Windmill was burglarized. The windmill is now a souvenir shop, and the burglars took the cash box. They also helped themselves to a Sag Harbor sweatshirt. Police are on the lookout for someone in a Sag Harbor sweatshirt.

* * *

A Hamptons Bays man was walking on Ponquogue Avenue, when a car passed by and the side mirror hit him in the behind. The 37-year-old man suffered a minor injury to his buttocks from the impact with the mirror.

* * *

In another case of passing motorists, a 30-year-old woman was jogging on Cold Spring Harbor Road when a car passed. The car stopped a ways down the road and the driver got out. When the jogger got closer, she realized that the man, described as six-foot-tall, thin and in his thirties, was masturbating. She promptly, turned around and ran the other way.

* * *

On the North Fork, Johnny James, 47, of Cutchogue, stopped to ask a police officer for directions on Main Bayview Road in Southold. The officer noticed that James appeared to be intoxicated, and so instead of giving him the directions, he arrested him for DWI.

Finally, in Bridgehampton, Leroy Hardy, 61, of Bridgehampton, a well-known figure around the neighborhood, was arrested at the Bridgehampton National Bank for disorderly conduct. According to police, Hardy was highly intoxicated and was blocking traffic at the bank's drive-up teller window.

Dan's LETTERS

THANK YOU BEN AMATO
Dear Dan,

My family and I would like to thank you for publishing "On The Shoulder," which appeared in your August 25 newspaper. We are very touched that you considered our story, and feel quite honored to have it appear in Dan's Papers. Mr. Amato is a very compassionate person and his sincere interest in our mission has touched us all. The article was well written, as are all the articles that appear in your paper.

The new millennium began with a tremendous amount of tragedy in our family, and at times I wondered if we would all get through it. As I told Mr. Amato, happiness broadens your heart, but sorrow opens the soul. Each and every day, rain or shine, we have all been out there holding our Community Awareness Event at the intersection where my brother lost his life back in January. It's a sad commentary when a grieving family has to resort to letter writing and picketing in the street for almost a month to get anything done. But we are all in agreement – it's worth every minute if it will spare one life while the politicians drag their feet. I can't wait to see which one of them will appear in the local paper taking credit for getting a traffic light or the median closed.

Thank you from the bottom of our hearts!

Deborah Ferguson

SABOTAGE KNOWN AND UNKNOWN
Dear Dan,

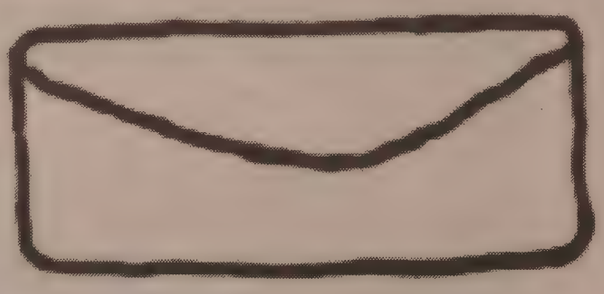
I enjoyed your article about Hitler Hills and the Quaker State map. Makes you wonder – wise guy, sympathizer or careless? It would be interesting to see if the error was repeated on the 1941 Quaker State map. Regarding the NY Mirror real estate promotion, I believe that the Brooklyn Eagle did something along those lines on Fire Island, specifically at Ocean Bay Park in the 1920s or 1930s.

I wish to add that your comment stating that the German landing in Amagansett in June 1942 was "the only time that enemy soldiers had ever successfully landed on American soil" is incorrect. The Japanese invaded and occupied the American territories of Wake Island, Guam and the Philippines as well as Attu and Kiska in the Aleutians during WWII. In addition, the British invaded the United States in August 1814, marching through Maryland to defeat the American forces at the Battle of Bladensburg and ultimately burning Washington D.C. That was pretty successful.



At the time of the Amagansett landings, four other German saboteurs landed by submarine in Florida and took a train to New York City, where they joined the four Long Island saboteurs and all took rooms in Manhattan hotels. They had plenty of American money and a couple of suitcases full of explosives that had also made the journey by train from Florida. Contrary to popular legend, the eight saboteurs were not tracked down by the FBI, but were only captured after two of the spies blew the whistle on the rest of the group. The two informants were given life imprisonment. After the war they were deported back to Germany where they were not too popular. The other six were executed by the United States. In 1944, two more German saboteurs landed by submarine near Bar Harbor, ME, and made their way by train to Boston and then to New York City, where they partied until Colepaugh contacted the FBI through an American friend and surrended. He gave up his compatriot, Gimpel, who was captured at a Times Square newsstand on December 30, 1944. Happy New Year. They were both sentenced to death but President Truman later lessened their sentences.

It is generally accepted that the Germans were quite successful in sabotaging American installations during WWI, much of which is documented in a book entitled Sabotage at Black Tom. Black Tom Island was an eleven-acre munitions depot in New York Harbor. It was utterly destroyed by German saboteurs on the night of July 30, 1916. My father was a teenager at the time and told me the explosion woke people up in Brooklyn and broke windows in Manhattan. The saboteurs were never caught.

For this and other reasons, I find it hard to believe that the three landings discussed above were the only instances of enemy (German) landings on the American continent during WWII. These insertions were completely successful and the enemy agents in each case were only apprehended because one of them lost his nerve and contacted the FBI. As a result of these essentially successful incursions by the enemy, I became interested in the total destruction by fire of the Firestone Rubber Company Plant in Fall River, MA, on the night of October 11, 1941, only two months prior to Pearl Harbor. The plant contained 12 percent of America's entire rubber stockpile. As the United States was already involved in a non-declared shootings war with Germany in the Atlantic in support of Great Britain, it seems very plausible that the Firestone fire was sabotage. I contacted several government agencies about this incident. However, there was no help forthcoming from any of them, and all replied with typically bureacratic form letters that this was not in their jurisdiction or there was no information. It appears our government only lets us know what it wants us to know.
